The speaker for the award's banquet will be the mayor of Crooksville, Jim Brown. He will speak of his humorous experiences in politics.

Think 3 Yachts Are Near Macao

HONG KONG (AP) — Fifteen yachtsmen, including six Americans, are reported being held at a small port near the Portuguese colony of Macao following their capture Sunday by the Communist Chinese.

Macao sources with Communist contacts said the yachtsmen were being detained at China's Gau Chau port just north of Macao "pending an investigation by authorities." Vessels passing the port reported seeing the masts of three sailing yachts in the port.

British officials in Hong Kong said they have had no reply from Peking in their effort to free the pleasure sailors, who were captured on a holiday cruise from Hong Kong to Macao 40 miles to the west.

France Again Tries To Cut Britain Off From Continent

LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's boycott of the Western European Union threw a new storm over the Continent today, less than a week before President Nixon's visit.

In the latest maneuver of De Gaulle's little cold war with Britain, France withdrew Monday from the council of the WEU, the seven-nation organization that provides the only forum in which Britain and the six nations of the Common Market can discuss cooperation. The council meets twice a month.

Some commentators regarded the confrontation between France and Britain as a deliberate buildup for the U.S. President's visit.

For France, it underlines De Gaulle's determination to lead Western Europe, to show Nixon that Western Europe cannot move without Paris, and to warn Nixon not to push for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

For Britain, it demonstrates that Britain enjoys the support of France's five Common Market allies, and it shows the conviction of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government that Britain belongs in Europe despite De Gaulle's veto.

The crisis began building up last week when all the WEU governments except France — Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — agreed to consult each other on foreign affairs and to discuss the Middle East at a special meeting in London last Friday.

De Gaulle reportedly considered this meeting a British maneuver to get closer political links with the Continent and approach the Common Market through the back door.

France boycotted the meeting and unsuccessfully demanded the resignation of Maurice Iwens D'Eckhoutte of Belgium, secretary-general of the WEU, for allowing it to be held.

French officials said their government told the organization Monday it was halting "all activities in WEU's indefinitely" and that France would not attend a WEU council meeting scheduled in London today.

France will continue to attend WEU meetings below the council level, however, and officials said French delegates would be at the semiannual WEU parliamentary assembly in Paris next Thursday.

Nixon Cuts Big Programs From OEO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is preparing to pare away roughly half of the Office of Economic Opportunity in a major realignment of the war on poverty.

The Job Corps, Head Start and slum health centers are to be shifted to other federal agencies, informed sources said today.

But one of the most controversial of the antipoverty efforts, the community action programs, will be left in OEO, they said. So will VISTA, the domestic peace corps.

The White House is expected to make the formal announcement today or Wednesday.

Head Start, the widely praised preschool program for disadvantaged children, is OEO's largest single program with a $318 million budget. It is slated to go to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Job Corps, the second largest at $280 million, is to be transferred to the Labor Department.

HEW will also get the Comprehensive Health Services program of slum medical clinics.

The war on poverty, launched by President Johnson four years ago, has come under increasing criticism in the past year amid accusations of scandal and spotty performance.

Great Blimp Hijack Of '69 Fails To Get Off The Ground

CARSON, Calif. (AP) — The great blimp hijack of 1969 never got off the ground.

The would-be pirate: who else, in the hippie-happy land around Hollywood and Disneyland, but a long-haired youth armed with a guitar?

Under his other arm, he carried a mysterious black box.

"I want a ride, man," he told Jim Genet, a company crewman who works on the Goodyear blimp by day and takes turns working a nearby guard shack by night.

"It not, I'll blow the thing up," Genet quoted the youth as saying.

Genet called for help. For the next hour and a half, about 30 armed officers surrounded the big gas bag and waited patiently Monday night, said one—"in case he really did have a bomb."

Finally, Sheriff's Sgt. Arthur Hicks and the bomb squad arrived. Hicks walked boldly across the open, grassy field and opened the tiny door of the gondola hanging under the dirigible's plump belly.

"Are you the pilot?" the hairy occupant asked Hicks. "I want to go to Aspen, Colorado" for a jazz festival.

The youth, without waiting for an answer, pushed a "button" on his black box. Hicks waited for an explosion. Instead he heard a blast of rock music from the lad's tiny black transistor radio. After searching him, Hicks helped him out.

En route to a hospital where he was admitted—still unidentified—for observation, the bearded youth believed to be about 20 explained that he managed to slip by the guard "because I'm invisible."

"He never would have made it to Aspen," said Ralph Reed, another crewman of the 160-foot blimp used by the rubber company for advertising purposes.

"The blimp has a maximum ceiling of 3,500 feet and Aspen is about 13,000 feet high. Besides, its maximum fuel load allows only 20 hours in the air."

Too bad. The hairy young man had brought along his toothbrush.

B52s Pound Red Bases Near Saigon

Shift Priority From Laos To Capital

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers have shifted their priority in the past week from the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos to Viet Cong bases threatening Saigon, informed sources reported today.

The Stratofortresses have pulverized suspected enemy bases on two sides of Saigon with 7,200 tons of explosives in the last seven days in spoiling raids to try to prevent four North Vietnamese divisions from massing for an assault against Saigon.

Twenty-four B52s took to the air after the allies' 24-hour Tet cease-fire ended Monday evening, striking 35 miles north to 63 miles northwest of Saigon. Some of the raids were nine miles from the Cambodian border.

The big bombers average about 70 sorties during each 24-hour reporting period. Previously about half this number were targeted for strikes in Laos. But in the past week, it is estimated the sorties over Laos dropped off to 18 a day with the biggest effort shifted to the provinces around Saigon.

B52 raids in the Saigon area were tripled for the lunar new year period—roughly 240 sorties, or one flight by one plane, were flown in the past week—in anticipation that the Communist command might try to launch major thrusts from its two main bases in War Zones D and C. Sources said the B52s dropped nearly 26,000 bombs each weighing 500 and 750 pounds on these areas.

Meanwhile a week's cease-fire declared by the Viet Cong still had four days to go. But U.S. forces had resumed full-scale ground operations after their 24-hour truce, and enemy harassing attacks continued. Most of the latter were small in scale, but about 60 U.S. and South Vietnamese operations of battalion size or larger were reported under way.

Urge Private Agent For Medicaid Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Charles Fry R-9 Springfield said Tuesday he will introduce legislation to authorize use of a private fiscal agent to process Medicaid payment claims for the Ohio Department of Public Welfare.

The agent would be a private medical insurance company which would process medical service payments to those providing services to Medicaid recipients.

Pueblo Officer Says Brutal Beatings Brought Confession

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for servicemen taken prisoner doesn't "apply itself well" to modern psychological warfare, says the USS Pueblo's second in command.

"The underlying principle behind it must be maintained—that is, loyalty to our government," Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. told a Navy court of inquiry Monday after saying he signed a fraudulent spy confession following two days of North Korean torture and two death threats.

Murphy said he made a false confession to spying—and to invading North Korean territorial waters—but not before the North Koreans gave him three bloody beatings, threatened twice to kill him and he heard what sounded like Bucher and other officers confessing.

Murphy said he was stripped to his shorts and forced to crouch and balance on the balls of his feet with a stick about one and one-half inches thick behind his knees.

The effect of the stick, he said, "is to deaden the sensation in the bottom of your legs. I lost control of my legs and started to quiver."

"They hit me in the face and chest and kicked me backwards ... another kicked me forward. It was back and forth until I was on the deck, and then they kicked me until I stood up. And then it was back down on the stick again."

"I don't know how many evolutions like that I made but on at least six occasions I passed out from being kicked ... one of the times I fell over I was kicked severely in the side of the head and it split my ear open. There was an area on the floor completely covered with blood from my ear and I was cut on the lip."

"The one piece of clothing I did have, the shorts, were pretty well bathed in blood. I told them I was ready to sign what they wanted."

Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., president of the court asked, "What was more influential ... the belief that your shipmates had capitulated or the physical treatment given you?"

A. Murphy: "I was ready to endure more. I was in a physical state in which I well could have gone on forever—probably in oblivion ... (but why should I as an individual fight the war singlehandedly when others and the whole ship seemed to have fallen ... I felt it would have been a useless attempt on my part to avoid the reality that was at hand.)"

Q. "What was the single most significant factor?"

A. "I would have to say the fact that I'd found my action was useless—nothing to be served, nothing to be gained by continuing resisting when others had already capitulated."

College Flareup Ends In Court

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
California turned to the courts Tuesday in an attempt to cool off campus militants at San Francisco State College, scene of disruptive student unrest for the past three months.

At the University of Wisconsin a classroom boycott by Negro students lost momentum after 1,900 National Guardsmen were ordered in to help police control demonstrators. Student leaders called a recess in campus demonstrations.

A new twist to campus rebellion arose at the University of South Carolina when a youth was arrested for burning a Confederate flag in front of the school president's home. In South Carolina state law forbids mutilation of the United States, Confederate or state flags.

The California state attorney general obtained a court order Monday dismissing militant officers of the student body and placing $250,000 of student aid funds in receivership. A spokesman said the court would be asked to make the injunction permanent.

At the same time Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, the school's acting president, suspended two Negro teachers for supporting a strike by some elements of the student body and faculty.

At Wisconsin only 400 listeners turned up Monday night for a campus rally supporting demands by Negro students for special privileges, compared with thousands who took part in demonstrations at the start of the classroom boycott last week.

H. Edwin Young, the university's chancellor, said:

"The situation is such that we can reduce substantially the number of guardsmen."

Foundations 1st To Come Under Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opened a sweeping review of the tax code today, hearing a call for a 20 per cent tax on the investment income of private foundations.

Rep. Wright Patman, the Texas Democrat who has been a leading critic of tax-exempt foundations for more than eight years, told the House Ways and Means Committee in prepared testimony "I do not seek to destroy foundations, but to reform them."

Patman, however, said he does not propose taxing contributions to foundations, but rather on their investment revenue.

The committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat Wilbur D. Mills, began what is expected to be a two-year job of revamping tax laws which were last reviewed in 1954.

Patman said the use of some of the nation's estimated 3,200 foundations have made of their tax-free status "reveals the continuing devotion of some of our millionaires to greed, rather than conversion to graciousness."

However, Charles L. McClaskey, president of the National Association of Foundations, Inc., said the groups are capable of policing themselves under their associations' code of ethics, and no additional legislation is necessary.

"Private foundation abuse is, as a matter of fact, not widespread as some would have you believe, because the experience of the Internal Revenue Service in auditing private foundation's returns found less than two per cent (Continued on Page 2)

Crack Develops In Swing-Wing Jet Structure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The F111A swing-wing fighter-bomber program has hit another snag, but the Air Force says it doesn't know how serious the problem might be.

A crack was detected last Wednesday in an F111A's steel carry-through structure, a box around which the wings pivot.

"No F111 aircraft have been grounded as the test does not indicate a safety hazard to aircraft now in use," the Air Force said Monday.

There was no estimate of how long it will take to determine what effect the test failure will have on the overall program.

Wiretap, Death Penalty Bills Eyed By Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate Judiciary Committee heard Monday night conflicting viewpoints on a bill to allow limited wire tapping with court approval and sent it to a subcommittee for further study.

Law enforcement officials told the committee that wiretapping is necessary to fight organized crime and civil liberties proponents contended that it would be an invasion of privacy.

"I do urge that you give this bill immediate consideration and pass it," David Dowd Jr., Stark County prosecuting attorney, said.

Dowd said "I wish I had it now" to uncover gambling and narcotic operations in Stark County.

He urged that the bill be amended to allow a wiretap or eavesdrop to be used for a period of 30 days. The bill provides for a 15-day period of surveillance.

Robert Macklin, testifying for the Ohio Crime Commission, said the commission will submit its own wiretap bill to the committee.

He said the commission bill was almost identical with the new federal wiretapping and eavesdropping law and would conform to recent Supreme Court rulings.

It is an essential tool for fighting organized crime," he said, adding that a legalized wiretap would deprive the organization of a means of communication.

He said law officers have a hard time gathering evidence on organized crime because informants are often brutally murdered.

Benson A. Wolman, chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union of Central Ohio, said the bill would sanction law enforcement "fishing expeditions."

"The bill does not involve a one-shot interception of a conversation," Wolman said. "It is not restricted to time, place and specific conversations."

He explained that because the bill includes a 15-day authorization, an eavesdrop on a suspect would include the conversations of many innocent persons and possibly intimate conversations.

David Clayman, representing the Ohio AFL-CIO, said the bill infringed on the right of privacy and was "dirty business to uncover dirty business."

"I'm afraid of a police state and I hope I never see one," Clayman said, adding the bill contains all the symptoms of one.

"It would be denying people with bad reputations the right of privacy," Clayman added.

The Judiciary Committee also heard testimony on a resolution to put the question of abolishing the death penalty on the November ballot.

Oliver Ocasek D-27 Northfield the bill's main sponsor, said "the committee must decide whether this issue is of sufficient importance to be placed on the ballot for the second time this century."

He said the last time capital punishment was voted upon by the people was in 1912, which was before women could vote.

"The second question that this committee must decide," he said "is do you believe in the constitution of Ohio which says that the power basically belongs to the people?"

Under questioning, Ocasek said he favored putting the death penalty on the ballot because he did "not expect my colleagues in the House and Senate to vote for outright repeal."

Ocasek said he has received "hundreds of letters of support and a lesser number against the resolution."

"I am aware of the divided opinion, but what better to bring the discussion out in the open," he said.

Aquanaut Dies Of Heart Attack; Test Suspended

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A $10-million Navy program to train men for undersea living has been suspended while doctors try to learn why an aquanaut had a fatal heart seizure 610 feet down on Monday.

Sealab 3, the leaking underwater dwelling unit which Berry L. Cannon, 33, was attempting to repair when stricken, was ordered hauled up from the ocean floor near San Clemente island. A delay of weeks seemed likely for the trouble-plagued project, which called for five nine-man teams to spend 12 days each living and working at the bottom of the sea.

The other eight members of Cannon's team began a six-day period of decompression, a gradual process in which their body tissues become accustomed again to surface pressures. Like Cannon, they had been conditioned to pressures 19 times normal to withstand the weight of the ocean at the Sealab's depth.

The body of Cannon, a civilian with three children, was flown to 11th Naval District headquarters at San Diego, Calif., for an autopsy. Deputy County Coroner W. T. Souza said preliminary tests were inconclusive.

The depth was not unusual for experimental descents and spokesmen said all divers in the program had been tested at that pressure in compression chambers without mishap.

The project, delayed since last July by equipment problems, got under way Saturday when the 57-by-12 foot steel cylinder was lowered by crane to the ocean floor.

No diver set foot in it, however.

Preliminary checks Sunday showed the helium-oxygen breathing mixture with which it was pressurized was leaking slowly at places where power and communications lines entered the unit.

Cannon, an electronics engineer, and three others of his team were sent down in a diving bell to investigate Sunday night and again Monday morning. On the second dive, Cannon suffered a seizure which Navy doctors termed a cardiac arrest, or heart stoppage.

Snow Dusts Appalachians, Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Light snow sifted into the southern Appalachians and also whitened parts of the Northeast today while winds from a fading weekend storm buffeted the Middle Atlantic coast.

Gale warnings remained in effect through the night from North Carolina to New Jersey as the storm which socked the Southeast with heavy snow and ice during the weekend swept out into the Atlantic.

Snowfall during the night generally was an inch or less in areas of the East and South which got new coverings.

Utility crews worked at restoring electrical power to sections of North and South Carolina blacked out when ice-laden lines snapped in two.

Light snow dusted the Northeast and the northern upper Great Lakes region, and light rain dampened northern and central California.

Clear skies prevailed through most of the mid-continent, and temperatures in the seasonally crisp 20s and 30s were widespread.

Genuinely mild weather was confined to the extreme southern tip of Florida and portions of the Southwest.

Chilly air covering a large part of the Southeast dropped the temperature to 49 at Miami shortly after midnight.

The coldest weather centered once more in the northern Rockies where Evanston, Wyo., registered -11.

Meanwhile a week's cease-fire declared by the Viet Cong still had four days to go. But U.S. forces had resumed full-scale ground operations after their 24-hour truce, and enemy harassment attacks continued. Most of the latter were small in scale, but about 60 U.S. and South Vietnamese operations of battalion size or larger were reported under way.

Head Start, the widely praised preschool program for disadvantaged children, is OEO's largest single program with a $318 million budget. It is slated to go to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Urges Private Agent For Medicaid Work
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Charles Fry R-9 Springfield said Tuesday he will introduce legislation to authorize use of a private fiscal agent to process Medicaid payment claims for the Ohio Department of Public Welfare.

The agent would be a private medical insurance company which would process medical service payments to those providing services to Medicaid recipients.

At the same time Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, the school's acting president, suspended two Negro teachers for supporting a strike by some elements of the student body and faculty.

At Wisconsin only 400 listeners turned up Monday night for a campus rally supporting demands by Negro students for special privileges, compared with thousands who took part in demonstrations at the start of the classroom boycott last week.

H. Edwin Young, the university's chancellor, said:

"The situation is such that we can reduce substantially the number of guardsmen."

The second question that this

"is do you believe in the constitution of Ohio which says that the power basically belongs to the people."

Under questioning, Ocacek said he favored putting the death penalty on the ballot because he did "not expect my colleagues in the House and Senate to vote for outright repeal."

Ocacek said he has received "hundreds of letters of support and a lesser number against the resolution."

"I am aware of the divided opinion, but what better to bring the discussion out in the open," he said.

Foundations 1st To Come Under Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opened a sweeping review of the tax code today, hearing a call for a 20 per cent tax on the investment income of private foundations.

Rep. Wright Patman, the Texas Democrat who has been a leading critic of tax-exempt foundations for more than eight years, told the House Ways and Means Committee in prepared testimony "I do not seek to destroy foundations, but to reform them."

Patman, however, said he does not propose taxing contributions to foundations, but rather on their investment revenue.

The committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat Wilbur D. Mills, began what is expected to be a two-year job of revamping tax laws which were last reviewed in 1954.

Patman said the use of some of the nation's estimated 3,200 foundations have made of their tax-free status "reveals the continuing devotion of some of our millionaires to greed, rather than conversion to graciousness."

However, Charles L. McClaskey, president of the National Association of Foundations, Inc., said the groups are capable of policing themselves under his associations' code of ethics, and no additional legislation is necessary.

"Private foundation abuse is, as a matter of fact, not widespread as some would have you believe, because the experience of the Internal Revenue Service in auditing private foundation's returns found less than two per

Crack Develops In Swing-Wing Jet Structure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The F111A swing-wing fighter-bomber program has hit another snag, but the Air Force says it doesn't know how serious the problem might be.

A crack was detected last Wednesday in an F111A's steel carry-through structure, a box around which the wings pivot.

"No F111 aircraft have been grounded as the test does not indicate a safety hazard to aircraft now in use," the Air Force said Monday.

There was no estimate of how long it will take to determine what effect the test failure will have on the overall program.

Think 3 Yachts Are Near Macao

HONG KONG (AP) — Fifteen yachtsmen, including six Americans, are reported being held at a small port near the Portuguese colony of Macao following their capture Sunday by the Communist Chinese.

Macao sources with Communist contacts said the yachtsmen were being detained at China's Gau Chau port just north of Macao "pending an investigation by authorities." Vessels passing the port reported seeing the masts of three sailing yachts in the port.

British officials in Hong Kong said they have had no reply from Peking in their effort to free the pleasure sailors, who were captured on a holiday cruise from Hong Kong to Macao 40 miles to the west.

Marvin Moss, 22, Route 1, was fined $265 and costs, sentenced to a total of 25 days in the county jail and had his driving rights suspended for six months by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

Moss was cited by police for unlawfully eluding a police officer and for making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle.

He was cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol for leaving the scene of an accident and reckless operation.

Circleville Policeman James Francis spotted Moss driving west on Route 22 at the edge of town at 2:06 a.m. today. Francis stated that Moss's car was making unnecessary noise.

Francis started to pursue Moss. Moss drove up the southbound entrance ramp of Route 23 onto Route 23 and then down the eastbound exit ramp.

When Moss got onto Route 22 again, he attempted to make a turn. He lost control of his car and struck the police cruiser.

After hitting the cruiser, he continued west. Francis turned and gave chase, finally apprehending Moss on the Canal Road near Route 22.

About $300 damage was done to the cruiser according to an estimate of the Ohio State Highway Patrol. OSP officers investigated the accident. Moss' car was heavily damaged.

Judge Lamb ordered Moss to pay for damage to the police car.

Merrill E. Smith, 25, Route 3, was fined $50 and costs for reckless operation and $15 and costs for driving a vehicle with no lights.

Besides a tax on such foundation income as interest, dividends, capital gains and profit from business activities, Patman said he is offering legislation to limit any privately controlled foundation from owning more than 3 per cent of the stock of a business. He said it would also require such organizations to distribute annually for philanthropic purposes their entire net income.

Patman said 596 foundations studied by the small business subcommittee he heads increased the value of their assets from $10.2 billion to $15.1 billion between 1960 and 1966.

A two-car frame garage and an automobile were destroyed by flames 2:20 p.m. Monday at the D. A. Marshall residence on County Road 511.

The building was valued at $1,600 and the car at $2,200, members of the Circleville Fire Department said today.

Flames from a nearby trash fire set the garage ablaze. It was burning nearly out of control before the fire was discovered by Marshall.

Big Changes In Airport Are Seen

CINCINNATI (AP) — Air transportation in southern Ohio and northern Kentucky will undergo some startling improvements within the next few years.

Some of them will occur within months.

The picture centers on the Greater Cincinnati Airport in Boone County, Ky., just across the Ohio from Cincinnati. The complex continues to grow in a gigantic sprawl, now totaling 4,600 acres. By 1975 it will embrace almost twice that.

If you think that's big, consider the proposition in nearby Butler County. Several interests are thinking of a jetport with 20,000 acres which would be located within that county.

During 1968, Greater Cincinnati Airport completed a $200,000 maintenance building that houses a million dollars worth of field equipment, such as snow plows and blowers, grass mowers and trucks.

Sertoma Club Observes Freedom Week

The basic principles of freedom will be emphasized this week according to Ward Skinner, chairman of Sertoma's Freedom Week.

The Circleville Sertoma Club join hundreds of other Sertoma clubs throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico in this annual freedom celebration that has brought praise from school and public officials everywhere.

Dave Sealock spoke today to seventh graders in public and Catholic Schools. All students received a copy of the Declaration of Independence, suitable for framing. Seventh grade home rooms received a large framed copy of the Declaration of Independence. The Junior High School also received a bronze framed Bill of Rights.

Almost one million freedom presentations have been made, both to students and to newly naturalized citizens, since the program was first conceived.

Sertoma President Roger Bennington pointed out that this program is intended to bring freedom nearer the individual.

"We can't help but feel that a child's own copy of our greatest guarantee of freedom, the Declaration of Independence, will bring him nearer to the basic beliefs underlying our democratic way of life. There are always huge, framed copies of the document hanging in public libraries and other public buildings, but we Sertomans feel that freedom isn't something you just look at; it's something you take home with you and enjoy."

Robber Nets $1646 From Derby Firm

A robbery of Derby Landmark Feed and Grain Company netted about $1,646 over the weekend, according to a report by Pickaway County sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover.

The culprit entered the company's offices by a rear window sometime between 1 p.m. Saturday and 7:54 a.m. Monday. After entering the office he took a pair of gloves from one of the counters and put them on while he forced open the safe.

Total value of the checks taken from the safe was $1,454.36 with an additional $192.15 in cash taken.

The incident is still under investigation by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Bloody Ex-Con Dumped On Back County Road

An injured ex-convict discovered near Robtown Monday was turned over to Columbus police to face criminal charges.

The man, identified by Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover as Fred Roseberry of Columbus, was first discovered by a Teays Valley school bus driver.

The driver informed the local sheriff's department that he had spotted a man lying in a ditch about 3:32 p.m. Monday on West-Ford Road near the junction of Circleville-Commercial Point Road.

The man was drunk and had apparently been dumped out of a car onto the deserted road, according to the deputy. His face was covered with blood from a laceration to his forehead. He was taken to Berger Hospital for emergency treatment. There was no indication that he had been beaten or robbed.

A check of area law enforcement agencies showed that the 35-year-old man was wanted by Columbus police for driving without an operator's license and failure to register.

He was turned over to Columbus authorities late Monday.

Solons In The Mood For Budget Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the joint House-Senate Economic Committee indicate there is strong sentiment in Congress for deep cuts—comparable to last year's $6 billion slash—in the $195.3-billion budget inherited by President Nixon from the Johnson administration.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., presiding temporarily over committee hearings, said he was "very disappointed" at Monday's testimony from members of the Council of Economic Advisers who did not foresee large savings from the current review of Johnson's last budget. "But that doesn't mean Congress cannot make the cuts itself," Proxmire said. When questioned on whether he thought it might be possible to force a $6-billion reduction in the fiscal 1970 budget request, as was done in fiscal 1969, Proxmire replied:

"Oh, certainly. There is more sentiment in Congress for a cut this year."

Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, testified that the budget must be kept in balance for anti-inflationary reasons.

It is "quite possible," McCracken said, that the 10 per cent surtax therefore must be extended beyond its June 30 expiration date.

The budget surplus projected by Johnson is only $3.4 billion; the surtax brings in revenues three or four times as great. Its expiration at midyear would send the budget back into deficit, he said.

Rep. William B. Widnall, R-N.J., joined Proxmire in urging

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal regulations will make oil companies responsible for controlling or removing water pollution caused by their undersea wells, without a limit on the liability.

Neither will there be any need to prove the oil companies are at fault when any such pollution occurs.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel issued the amended regulation Monday in his first major action since a Union Oil Co. well in the Santa Barbara channel leaked huge quantities of oil into the ocean just off California.

The amendment strengthens the existing regulations prohibiting pollution of the ocean from mineral activities in federal lands on the outer continental shelf.

A department source said it's possible the new regulation will not affect Union Oil Co., since the firm already volunteered to pay all costs of cleaning up damage caused by the leak from their well.

Previous regulations specified only that "the lessee holder of a federal offshore lease shall dispose of all useless liquid products of wells in a manner acceptable to the federal supervisor."

Lease holders now will be responsible for damage to fish, wildlife and public and private property.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An international scientific conference opening here today may have an important bearing on exactly when this year the long-awaited vaccine against German measles will be licensed.

The three-day conference brings together scientists from a number of nations, including the Soviet Union. They will report on field trials of various experimental vaccines, most American-made.

Sponsoring the conference is the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and the New York University School of Medicine.

An official for the National Institutes of Health's division of biologics standards said the agency is hoping to license one or more vaccines as soon as possible to head off a possible epidemic in 1970-71.

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 15 years of growing statistically younger, the U.S. population may be on the threshold of an era when the median age starts moving up.

Man Is Held In Dual Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police are holding a 25-year-old man for the shooting of two Akron teen-agers.

John C. Arrett is charged with two counts of shooting with intent to kill or wound and two counts of assault with a deadly weapon. Police said Barrett told them he lived in Pompano Beach, Fla.

The teen-agers, Denise Edmonds, 15, and Paul McDaniel, 17, both are reported in satisfactory condition at City Hospital. Both are students at Central High School.

Ray Bliss Will Resign On April 15

Political Chief
Sends Letter
To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray Bliss is resigning April 15 as Republican national chairman, an authoritative source said today.

Bliss, chosen to head the GOP National Committee after the 1964 presidential election, announced his intention in a letter to President Nixon, it was learned.

There was no immediate indication of his successor, although the name of Murray Chotiner of California, long-time political associate of Nixon, was mentioned as a possible appointee to a high position within the committee.

Bliss, a former Ohio state Republican committee chairman, was a compromise candidate for the national post and is credited with much of the rebuilding of his party following the 1964 presidential election.

During his tenure as national chairman, the GOP picked up seats in both the House and Senate and increased its hold on gubernatorial chairs to the point where the Republican Party now has 31 governors to the Democrats' 19.

Bliss, who designated himself as a "nuts and bolts" man—a political technician—is expected to be succeeded as chairman by a more skilled television and platform performer.

Reports shortly after the November election that Bliss would be replaced drew widespread protests from GOP officials who had worked with him at the local level.

Republican governors, meeting in California in December, praised his record highly.

The decision to replace Bliss was Nixon's. Close advisers of Nixon were split over the issue with younger members of the President's team urging the replacement.

An official announcement of the resignation is expected later at the White House in an exchange of letters between Bliss and Nixon.

Friends said Bliss intends to retire from political activity and will return to Ohio, where he heads an insurance agency.

Seek Mandatory County Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Legislative Service Commission has been asked to prepare legislation seeking a mandatory county income tax to raise money for education.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-Bowling Green said the action comes from discussions with House Republicans.

Possibilities still remain that the form of the bill would call for permissive county income taxes rather than mandatory, but Kurfess made it clear he favors the mandatory tax.

The Census Bureau reported Monday the median age on July 1, 1968, was 27.7 years, meaning half of all Americans were older and half younger.

The figure was unchanged from what it had been 12 months earlier—the first time in 15 years that a year had passed without a drop in the median.

When the decline began in 1950, the nation was "older" with the midpoint in the age mixture at 30.3 years.

While it made no prediction of which way the median will go next, the Census Bureau noted the birth rate is currently in steep decline, a trend that will work against further lowering of the midpoint.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jon M. Lindbergh and Dr. Joseph B. MacInnis, partners in underwater research, said Monday mankind is on the verge of realizing an age-old dream of complete mobility under the sea.

They told an audience at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural Science that recent developments in submarine technology and in medical research are making it possible for man to explore more widely and at greater depth than ever before.

Lindbergh, of Seattle, is the son of Charles Lindbergh, the first person to fly the Atlantic solo. He and MacInnis a Toronto physician, are executives of Ocean Systems, Inc., a Tona-wanda, N.Y., underwater research and salvage company.

Stock List Goes Thud

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market went down again today following a pattern set Monday when the Dow Jones industrial average lost more than 14 points.

Trading was heavier than Monday's. But analysts did not view the selling with alarm and could pinpoint no major spark to account for the decline. The continued loss was seen as a storm that had to run its course.

Losses among the 1,474 issues traded were well ahead of gains —1,196 to 144.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 4.7 to 350.5. Industrials were off 6.5, rails were down 3.3, and the utility component eased 1.6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 8.21 at 929.51.

Volume by noon was 7.8 million shares, compared with 6.08 million by the same time Monday.

Francis started to pursue Moss. Moss drove up the southbound entrance ramp of Route 23 onto Route 23 and then down the eastbound exit ramp.

When Moss got onto Route 22 again, he attempted to make a turn. He lost control of his car and struck the police cruiser.

After hitting the cruiser, he continued west. Francis turned and gave chase, finally apprehending Moss on the Canal Road near Route 22.

About $300 damage was done to the cruiser according to an estimate of the Ohio State Highway Patrol. OSP officers investigated the accident. Moss's car was heavily damaged.

Judge Lamb ordered Moss to pay for damage to the police car.

Merrill E. Smith, 25, Route 3, was fined $50 and costs for reckless operation and $15 and costs for driving a vehicle with no lights.

Kenneth P. Humble, 59, Cuyahoga Falls, was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in the county jail and had his driving rights suspended for six months for driving while intoxicated.

Michael Conner, 18, 201 Harrison Ave., was fined $10 and costs for driving an unsafe motor vehicle; $25 and costs for disorderly conduct, $50 and costs for malicious destruction of property. He was also sentenced to 15 days in the county jail on the latter charge.

Charles T. Parmenter, 33, Commercial Point; forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

William A. Hill, 20, Route 2, was fined $50 and costs for driving with no operator's license.

Motorists who do not live in the area paid fines, costs and bond forfeitures totaling $690.

cent violations," he said in prepared testimony.

Besides a tax on such foundation income as interest, dividends, capital gains and profit from business activities, Patman said he is offering legislation to limit any privately controlled foundation from owning more than 3 per cent of the stock of a business. He said it would also require such organizations to distribute annually for philanthropic purposes their entire net income.

Patman said 596 foundations studied by the small business subcommittee he heads increased the value of their assets from $10.2 billion to $15.1 billion between 1960 and 1966.

Garage, Auto Destroyed

A two-car frame garage and an automobile were destroyed by flames 2:20 p.m. Monday at the D. A. Marshall residence on County Road 511.

The building was valued at $1,600 and the car at $2,200, members of the Circleville Fire Department said today.

Flames from a nearby trash fire set the garage ablaze. It was burning nearly out of control before the fire was discovered by Marshall.

Big Changes In Airport Are Seen

CINCINNATI (AP) — Air transportation in southern Ohio and northern Kentucky will undergo some startling improvements within the next few years.

Some of them will occur within months.

The picture centers on the Greater Cincinnati Airport in Boone County, Ky., just across the Ohio from Cincinnati. The complex continues to grow in a gigantic sprawl, now totaling 4,000 acres. By 1975 it will embrace almost twice that.

If you think that's big, consider the proposition in nearby Butler County. Several interests are thinking of a jetport with 20,000 acres which would be located within that county.

During 1968, Greater Cincinnati Airport completed a $200,000 maintenance building that houses a million dollars worth of field equipment, such as snow plows and blowers, grass mowers and tractors.

Sertoma Club Observes Freedom Week

The basic principles of freedom will be emphasized this week according to Ward Skinner, chairman of Sertoma's Freedom Week.

The Circleville Sertoma Club join hundreds of other Sertoma clubs throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico in this annual freedom celebration that has brought praise from school and public officials everywhere.

Dave Sealock spoke today to seventh graders in public and Catholic Schools. All students received a copy of the Declaration of Independence, suitable for framing. Seventh grade home rooms received a large framed copy of the Declaration of Independence. The Junior High School also received a bronze framed Bill of Rights.

Almost one million freedom presentations have been made, both to students and to newly naturalized citizens, since the program was first conceived.

Sertoma President Roger Bennington pointed out that this program is intended to bring freedom nearer the individual.

"We can't help but feel that a child's own copy of our greatest guarantee of freedom, the Declaration of Independence, will bring him nearer to the basic beliefs underlying our democratic way of life. There are always huge, framed copies of the document hanging in public libraries and other public buildings, but we Sertomans feel that freedom isn't something you just look at; it's something you take home with you and enjoy."

Bliss, a former Ohio state Republican committee chairman, was a compromise candidate for the national post and is credited with much of the rebuilding of his party following the 1964 presidential election.

During his tenure as national chairman, the GOP picked up seats in both the House and Senate and increased its hold on gubernatorial chairs to the point where the Republican Party now has 31 governors to the Democrats' 19.

Bliss, who designated himself as a "nuts and bolts" man—a political technician—is expected to be succeeded as chairman by a more skilled television and platform performer.

Reports shortly after the November election that Bliss would be replaced drew widespread protests from GOP officials who had worked with him at the local level.

Republican governors, meeting in California in December, praised his record highly.

The decision to replace Bliss was Nixon's. Close advisers of Nixon were split over the issue with younger members of the President's team urging the replacement.

An official announcement of the resignation is expected later at the White House in an exchange of letters between Bliss and Nixon.

Friends said Bliss intends to retire from political activity and will return to Ohio, where he heads an insurance agency.

Bloody Ex-Con Dumped On Back County Road

An injured ex-convict discovered near Robstown Monday was turned over to Columbus police to face criminal charges.

The man, identified by Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover as Fred Roseberry of Columbus, was first discovered by a Teays Valley school bus driver.

The driver informed the local sheriff's department that he had spotted a man lying in a ditch about 3-32 p.m. Monday on West-Ford Road near the junction of Circleville-Commercial Point Road.

The man was drunk and had apparently been dumped out of a car onto the deserted road, according to the deputy. His face was covered with blood from a laceration to his forehead. He was taken to Beeger Hospital for emergency treatment. There was no indication that he had been beaten or robbed.

A check of area law enforcement agencies showed that the 35-year-old man was wanted by Columbus police for driving without an operator's license and failure to register.

He was turned over to Columbus authorities late Monday.

Friends may call at the Ray Wise Funeral Home 7.9 p.m. Tuesday and 2-4 p.m. and 7.9 p.m. Wednesday or at the church after 1 p.m. Thursday.

Solons In The Mood For Budget Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the joint House-Senate Economic Committee indicate there is strong sentiment in Congress for deep cuts—comparable to last year's $6 billion slash—in the $195.3-billion budget inherited by President Nixon from the Johnson administration.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., presiding temporarily over committee hearings, said he was "very disappointed" at Monday's testimony from members of the Council of Economic Advisers who did not foresee large savings from the current review of Johnson's last budget. "But that doesn't mean Congress cannot make the cuts itself," Proxmire said. When questioned on whether he thought it might be possible to force a $6-billion reduction in the fiscal 1970 budget request, as was done in fiscal 1969, Proxmire replied:

"Oh, certainly. There is more sentiment in Congress for a cut this year."

Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, testified that the budget must be kept in balance for anti-inflationary reasons.

It is "quite possible," McCracken said, that the 10 per cent surtax therefore must be extended beyond its June 30 expiration date.

The budget surplus projected by Johnson is only $3.4 billion; the surtax brings in revenues three or four times as great. Its expiration at midyear would send the budget back into deficit, he said.

Rep. William B. Widnall, R-N.J., joined Proxmire in urging budget reductions. Widnall drew from McCracken an acknowledgment that a dollar's worth of expenditure reduction probably has greater anti-inflationary effect than a dollar's worth of tax increase.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy is scheduled to appear before the committee Wednesday and Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz Thursday.

Stock List Goes Thud

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market went down again today following a pattern set Monday when the Dow Jones industrial average lost more than 14 points.

Trading was heavier than Monday's. But analysts did not view the selling with alarm and could pinpoint no major spark to account for the decline. The continued loss was seen as a storm that had to run its course.

Losses among the 1,474 issues traded were well ahead of gains—1,198 to 144.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 4.7 to 350.5. Industrials were off 6.5, rails were down 3.3, and the utility component eased 1.6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 8.21 at 929.51.

Volume by noon was 7.8 million shares, compared with 6.08 million by the same time Monday.

Prices also fell on the American Stock Exchange.

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal regulations will make oil companies responsible for controlling or removing water pollution caused by their undersea wells, without a limit on the liability.

Neither will there be any need to prove the oil companies are at fault when any such pollution occurs.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel issued the amended regulation Monday in his first major action since a Union Oil Co. well in the Santa Barbara channel leaked huge quantities of oil into the ocean just off California.

The amendment strengthens the existing regulations prohibiting pollution of the ocean from mineral activities in federal lands on the outer continental shelf.

A department source said it's possible the new regulation will not affect Union Oil Co., since the firm already volunteered to pay all costs of cleaning up damage caused by the leak from their well.

Previous regulations specified only that "the lessee holder of a federal offshore lease shall dispose of all useless liquid products of wells in a manner acceptable to the federal supervisor."

Lease holders now will be responsible for damage to fish, wildlife and public and private property.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An international scientific conference opening here today may have an important bearing on exactly when this year the long-awaited vaccine against German measles will be licensed.

The three-day conference brings together scientists from a number of nations, including the Soviet Union. They will report on field trials of various experimental vaccines, most American-made.

Sponsoring the conference is the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and the New York University School of Medicine.

An official for the National Institutes of Health's division of biologics standards said the agency is hoping to license one or more vaccines as soon as possible to head off a possible epidemic in 1970-71.

Man Is Held In Dual Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police are holding a 25-year-old man for the shooting of two Akron teen-agers.

John C. Arrett is charged with two counts of shooting with intent to kill or wound and two counts of assault with a deadly weapon. Police said Barrett told them he lived in Pompano Beach, Fla.

The teen-agers, Denise Edmonds, 15, and Paul McDaniel, 17, both are reported in satisfactory condition at City Hospital. Both are students at Central High School.

Seek Mandatory County Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Legislative Service Commission has been asked to prepare legislation seeking a mandatory county income tax to raise money for education.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-Bowling Green said the action comes from discussions with House Republicans.

Possibilities still remain that the form of the bill would call for permissive county income taxes rather than mandatory, but Kurfess made it clear he favors the mandatory tax.

Roundtowners Plan Play

PLANNING — Costume committee members for the Roundtowners' production of "Splendor In The Grass" review old pictures and sketches of costumes from the 1920's as Carolyn Young (center), director, makes suggestions. The committee members are Louise Spear (left), Lois Smith, chairman, and (not pictured) Bobbie Davis, Judy Siferd, Ortha Stambaugh, Miriam Chalmers, Jenny Russell and Debbie Young.

FITTINGS — Judy Siferd (left) and Lois Smith (right) help cast member Cindy Hang fix a dress she will be wearing in the Friday and Saturday night production of "Splendor In The Grass." More than 40 dresses will be needed for the production.

RESULTS — Cast members try out their new costumes in the dance scene above. Not authentic are the shoes and slacks being worn in the scene. However Lois Smith, chairman of the costume committee, stated that the shoes and trousers of cast members will be authentic or nearly so by opening night.

Little Town To Disappear Under Waters Of New Lake

REXFORD, Mont. (AP) — The little town of Rexford has a rundown appearance, most of its scattered buildings in need of paint.

But it's home to about 85 families. And most of them, according to Bill Fewkes, are "sad, disappointed, mad" because Rexford has to be moved.

The 66-year-old community must be vacated to make way for the waters which will rise behind the giant Libby Dam being built nearby.

Like the town, Fewkes is 66. He owns one of Rexford's two stores and handles general merchandise.

The major industry of the area now is logging, and it is to a timber tract about two miles to the northeast to which the town will be moved.

It's up to the individual family, however, whether it moves with the town or elsewhere. The corps will build a new school and a new city hall, but it won't be moving buildings to new sites. Instead, the landowners will be paid for their buildings.

On Rexford's one street is a bar, besides Fewkes's store and the grocery store of Leo Collar, who was born and raised in the town. There is one church.

The water level is expected to rise 100 feet above the town site when the dam is finished and by 1973, the water will back up 90 miles into Canada.

Those who died here will remain here. The town's cemetery is high enough to escape the water.

Probation Violator Sent To Prison

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Former real estate broker John V. Holden has been ordered back to the Ohio Penitentiary as a probation violator.

Common Pleas Judge Robert L. Simmons had placed Holden on probation last year after Holden served 47 days of a one-to-10-year sentence for embezzlement. Probation terms included making restitution to the real estate clients from whom Holden, once a millionaire, allegedly embezzled $64,000.

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hand grenade exploded and smashed windows in a house in the Jewish sector of Old Jerusalem today, shortly after a mystery blast startled residents through the city.

Witnesses said the grenade blasted a house designated for Jewish occupation in El Monadilem Street. The street in the former Jordanian area has been largely uninhabited since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

No injuries or other damage were reported.

New Oil Leak Is Reported Off California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A new leak at its offshore well site may be pouring as much as 2,000 gallons of oil a day into the Pacific Ocean, the Union Oil Co. has disclosed.

The first leak spewed more than 230,000 gallons, creating a slick that once reached 800 square miles.

The new leak has formed a slick two miles long and 30 to 40 feet wide, leaving kelp beds off Gaviota and Refugio beaches northwest of Santa Barbara blackened by small patches of heavy oil.

It was feared that southwest winds might push the new slick against the coast even as 800 men worked to clean up previously oil-gummed beaches and harbors in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties.

Union oil announced its new estimate of the leak's size Monday but union President Fred Hartley expressed hope it soon would be "reduced or eliminated." The firm previously reported 200 gallons a day flowing from the new leak.

Although the well which unleashed the big slick has been plugged, more crude oil was escaping nearby because pressure deep beneath the ocean floor was forcing oil through ocean bed fissures, Union said.

Union said it had asked for and received permission from secretary of the interior Walter J. Hickel to use another well, previously drilled at the site, to lower explosives designed to rearrange the strata beneath the ocean bed to seal the leak.

Hickel ordered all drilling in the channel halted after the disaster.

Ohio Prison Population In Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's prison population is declining.

The state's seven prisons held 10,120 inmates at the end of last month, compared to the record high of 12,024 on April 12, 1965.

State corrections Chief Maury C. Koblenz says several factors—including the Vietnam war and high employment—have resulted in fewer prisoners, despite a higher crime rate.

Courts are using probation more because more jobs are available now, Koblenz said. The court would rather give a man an opportunity, for his sake and his family's, rather than send him to prison.

Koblenz said this has become a nationwide trend and is being watched closely. He stressed that probation is not permissible in Ohio for the most serious crimes, such as murder, rape, kidnapping or armed robbery.

Another contributing factor in lower prison populations is the war, Koblenz said. "There's a large number of people, especially the young, who are in the service and out of circulation."

But Koblenz noted that an end to the war or the availability of fewer jobs in the nation could put prison populations on the rise again.

'Envelope Dropping' Shows Most People Are Honest

NORTHBRIDGE, Calif. (AP) — Two psychologists reported today that people in general are a lot more honest and unselfish than they are given credit for.

Patricia Keith-Spiegel, associate professor of psychology at San Fernando Valley State College, and Steven Latshaw, a research psychologist, reached this conclusion on the basis of a test they call "envelope dropping."

The two experimenters went around Los Angeles and its suburbs dropping 375 legal-size envelopes. The neighborhoods ranged from wealthy, such as Beverly Hills, to the poorest sections of the city.

Each envelope was stamped and addressed to Latshaw at his home.

Of the envelopes used, 150 had blank pieces of paper inside. Another 150 contained two slugs the size and weight of quarters and a realistic piece of stage money that could be seen if the envelope was held up to the light. The remaining 75 had typed on the outside: "This is a research study. Drop this envelope in the nearest postbox. Thank you for your cooperation."

All envelopes were coded on the inside to indicate where they had been left.

The finders of 91 per cent of the envelopes identified as part of a research project dropped them in a mailbox; 80 per cent of those with blank paper inside were returned, and 68 per cent of those with slugs and stage money went back.

"It shows people aren't nearly so bad as thought," Dr. Keith-Spiegel said. "If you lose a letter in Los Angeles, your chances of having it returned are about 8 out of 10—and those aren't bad odds.

"The upper income areas returned 82 per cent of the envelopes with stage money in them, while the middle income areas returned 66 per cent and the lower income areas 56 per cent."

There were no area differences in return of the envelopes saying on their face it was a research project, or the ones containing blank paper.

Escape Attempt Dismal Failure

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A prisoner tied two pairs of overalls together Monday to use as an escape "rope" from Seattle's sixth-floor city jail—and found he barely had a leg to hang on.

He should have used stretch pants.

Willard Aguilar, 32, discovered to his consternation when he slid to the end of the overalls he still was two floors short of the plaza he was trying to reach.

For 10 minutes Aguilar dangled on the face of the building hollering for help. Firemen hoisted a ladder and rescued him.

He was in jail for 180 days for possession of drugs and a concealed weapon.

Reds Slow Road Traffic From Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards halted traffic through West Berlin's main entrance to the autobahn for two hours today, then began letting cars through again, West Berlin police reported.

Traffic through other checkpoints on the roads between West Berlin and West Germany was delayed, with long lines of cars and trucks piling up. But it was not stopped.

It could not be determined how much of the delay was due to the new regulations and how much to the snow on the highways.

Traffic on the autobahns has been delayed since Feb. 15, when the East Germans imposed new restrictions on the surface routes to West Berlin in retaliation for the West German government's plan to hold its presidential election in West Berlin March 5.

The new regulations ban the more than 1,000 members of the electoral assembly from using the surface routes, along with other persons concerned with the election and all members of the West German armed forces. Since then the East German guards have been carefully checking all cars and trucks making the 110-mile trip to the Communist-surrounded city, ostensibly to enforce the new regulations.

Roundtowners Plan Play

PLANNING — Costume committee members for the Roundtowners' production of "Splendor In The Grass" review old pictures and sketches of costumes from the 1920's as Carolyn Young (center), director, makes suggestions. The committee members are Louise Spear (left), Lois Smith, chairman, and (not pictured) Bobbie Davis, Judy Siferd, Ortha Stambaugh, Miriam Chalmers, Jenny Russell and Debbie Young.

FITTINGS — Judy Siferd (left) and Lois Smith (right) help cast member Cindy Hang fix a dress she will be wearing in the Friday and Saturday night production of "Splendor In The Grass." More than 40 dresses will be needed for the production.

RESULTS — Cast members try out their new costumes in the dance scene above. Not authentic are the shoes and slacks being worn in the scene. However Lois Smith, chairman of the costume committee, stated that the shoes and trousers of cast members will be authentic or nearly so by opening night.

Little Town To Disappear Under Waters Of New Lake

REXFORD, Mont. (AP) — The little town of Rexford has a rundown appearance, most of its scattered buildings in need of paint.

But it's home to about 85 families. And most of them, according to Bill Fewkes, are "sad, disappointed, mad" because Rexford has to be moved.

The 66-year-old community must be vacated to make way for the waters which will rise behind the giant Libby Dam being built nearby.

Like the town, Fewkes is 66. He owns one of Rexford's two stores and handles general merchandise.

The major industry of the area now is logging, and it is to a timber tract about two miles to the northeast to which the town will be moved.

It's up to the individual family, however, whether it moves with the town or elsewhere. The corps will build a new school and a new city hall, but it won't be moving buildings to new sites. Instead, the landowners will be paid for their buildings.

On Rexford's one street is a bar, besides Fewkes's store and the grocery store of Leo Collar, who was born and raised in the town. There is one church.

The water level is expected to rise 100 feet above the town site when the dam is finished and by 1973, the water will back up 90 miles into Canada.

Those who died here will remain here. The town's cemetery is high enough to escape the water.

New Oil Leak Is Reported Off California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A new leak at its offshore well site may be pouring as much as 2,000 gallons of oil a day into the Pacific Ocean, the Union Oil Co. has disclosed.

The first leak spewed more than 230,000 gallons, creating a slick that once reached 800 square miles.

The new leak has formed a slick two miles long and 30 to 40 feet wide, leaving keep beds off Gaviota and Refugio beaches northwest of Santa Barbara blackened by small patches of heavy oil.

It was feared that southwest winds might push the new slick against the coast even as 800 men worked to clean up previously oil-gummed beaches and harbors in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties.

Union oil announced its new estimate of the leak's size Monday but union President Fred Hartley expressed hope it soon would be "reduced or eliminated." The firm previously reported 200 gallons a day flowing from the new leak.

Although the well which unleashed the big slick has been plugged, more crude oil was escaping nearby because pressure deep beneath the ocean floor was forcing oil through ocean bed fissures, Union said.

Union said it had asked for and received permission from secretary of the interior Walter J. Hickel to use another well, previously drilled at the site, to lower explosives designed to rearrange the strata beneath the ocean bed to seal the leak.

Hickel ordered all drilling in the channel halted after the disaster.

Ohio Prison Population In Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's prison population is declining.

The state's seven prisons held 10,120 inmates at the end of last month, compared to the record high of 12,024 on April 12, 1965.

State corrections Chief Maury C. Koblenz says several factors—including the Vietnam war and high employment—have resulted in fewer prisoners, despite a higher crime rate.

Courts are using probation more because more jobs are available now, Koblenz said. The court would rather give a man an opportunity, for his sake and his family's, rather than send him to prison.

Koblenz said this has become a nationwide trend and is being watched closely. He stressed that probation is not permissible in Ohio for the most serious crimes, such as murder, rape, kidnapping or armed robbery.

Another contributing factor in lower prison populations is the war, Koblenz said. "There's a large number of people, especially the young, who are in the service and out of circulation."

But Koblenz noted that an end to the war or the availability of fewer jobs in the nation could put prison populations on the rise again.

Bomber Revival

Throughout Robert McNamara's seven years as secretary of defense, the Air Force was unable to promote any new bomber concepts. It was McNamara's position that in the missile age bombers were too slow to respond and made easy targets.

Thus, the nation has inherited an aging fleet of B-52s and little else in the bomber line. But it didn't take the Pentagon long to remedy the situation once McNamara had left. The Air Force is now developing a new dual weapon system which will depend heavily upon giant bombers for delivery.

It is called Subsonic Cruise Armed Decoy, or SCAD. Even those civilian planners in the Pentagon who agreed with McNamara's position on bombers now agree that SCAD will put the bombers back on the runway.

What SCAD does is provide a two-pronged missile attack system. The vehicle itself is a small, pilotless craft equipped with a nuclear warhead. As many as 30 could be carried on bombers, perhaps more or later models. SCAD carries a radar reflective device which makes it appear to be a large bomber on radar screens.

Thus it acts initially like a decoy. In sufficient numbers it will play havoc with an enemy's radar and ground protection systems. But SCAD's real value is in its destructiveness. Each will carry a warhead described as "much more" destructive than the bombs used on Nagasaki and Hiroshima, and it carries its own guidance system to zero in on an enemy target.

The missiles would be relatively long range, enabling the bombers to drop their payload while still out at sea, far from any form of interception.

This puts the Air Force once more back in the heavy bomber business.

Non-Dangerous Strike

At last. A strike threatens which will not endanger the nation's security. President Nixon won't find it necessary to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law, and the secretary of labor won't have to alter his plans.

For the first time in 100 years, major league baseball players are threatening to strike. The players won't show up at spring training unless the club owners agree to put more into the retirement kitty. They want more of the radio and television revenue to go toward financing pensions.

Anyway, they didn't decide on the intentional walk-out, walkout - during the playing season. As slow as some of the games are, the fans wouldn't know there was a strike on.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The railroad and the firemen's union are reaching another climax in a fight over train crews, with a wholesale introduction of the term "featherbedding" adding an emotional and popular interest in the fight.

The blowup, if one is to come, may still be a couple of months away, but it is safe to assume that White House eyes are focused on the battle. It could mean a rail strike. It will mean a test of the new administration's skills.

The issue is over whether or not the railroads should be forced to add to freight-train crews some 18,000 men whose jobs were eliminated between 1964 and 1966, following a decision by a presidential arbitration board.

That decision was limited to two years in duration and the railroads worked in a hurry to make use of it. Many firemen were transferred to comparable jobs. Others were laid off, with allowances. Job vacancies simply were not filled.

In 1966, with the decision no longer binding, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen served notice that they wanted to return to the original situation, re-establishing the 13,000 jobs.

The railroads professed to be shocked. The firemen grimly stuck to their objective. For more than two years now the two have been in a tug-of-war, straining to win a few inches of rope but succeeding only in digging in deeper.

Making the matter a tough one for everyone involved is the fact that the arguments are infinitely interwoven in the peculiar operating structures of both railroads and union. They are also emotional and as far different as a modern diesel and an old steam locomotive.

Stalemate, the two sides agreed last June to try resolving their differences in face-to-face negotiations. Then they called in the National Mediation Board, which later decided it could do little to resolve the issues.

Instead, in January it offered binding arbitration as a way to end the dispute. The railroads agreed to the offer, but the union, now merged into the larger United Transportation Union, still is considering the matter.

The situation could very well remain a stalemate. If the union rejects the offer it might then set a strike date. The Nixon administration could invoke the Railway Labor Act to postpone a walkout for 60 days, but no more.

Meanwhile, the railroad peo- ple have brought the matter to the public through a huge advertising campaign appearing in many scores of newspapers. Said a spokesman for the National Labor Railway Conference, an arm of the Association of American Railroads:

"It is the belief of the railroads that there might be no way this can be finally settled without going to the public and the elected representatives of the public. Eventually this might get to Congress."

The railroads maintain that to put 18,000 men to work would be mere featherbedding. Deisels, they say, require no firemen because there's no coal to shovel and fewer gauges to read. "It would cost the public $200 million a year," they say.

The union feels the railroads have descended to an indecent level in calling union efforts featherbedding. The fireman, they say, is not just an idle third man in the engine cab. He's a lookout, a safeguard against accidents.

In support of its position, the UTU notes an increase in accidents of $750 or more during the past few years. And it argues that the fireman is also an apprentice engineer, carefully learning the craft.

The railroads say they can do without the extra pair of eyes in the cab because a brakeman already handles that job. And the accidents? There could be many reasons for their increase, a railroad man says.

First, he explains, inflation has put a lot more jostling accidents into the $750 category. Secondly, the equipment being used today is more expensive. Then there is an increase in load size and in speed also.

"The union is attempting to use safety as a wedge in its campaign to return to full-fledged featherbedding," the railroads state. "It's a cause for deep concern to every American."

And, says Charles Luna, president of the UTU, "Name-calling is a sick kind of refuge for those who have fallen into a poverty of fact and figure." Use of the term featherbedding, he said, is a failure of decency and logic.

"We do not feel that newspaper headlines and advertising campaigns will move us one inch near a solution," Luna adds.

Springfield Bus Line Dissolved

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Springfield Transit, Inc., the only public bus line serving this city of 83,000 persons, filed a petition for receivership Monday in Clark County Common Pleas Court.

The company announced last Friday that it is dissolving and will go out of business May 17. Company president Floyd Metzger cited a lack of patronage and increasing operating costs as the reasons Springfield Transit is giving up its franchise.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GUESTS AT A BANQUET honoring one of the leading citizens in an Oklahoma community got a surprise when the citizen's wife demanded that she be allowed to introduce him. Nor did her introduction contain usual phrases like "It is our privilege to honor tonight . . ." or "There is no need to tell this audience of the outstanding virtues and accomplishments . . ." No, indeed! She simply turned to him and commanded, "Get up, Eustace!"

The hazards confronting makers of elaborate TV commercials these days are accentuated by the report submitted by one of the country's leading breweries. One of their commercials opened with a shot of a crowded ice skating rink, followed by the skaters hurrying off the ice, still wearing their skates, to a bar adjacent, where, of course, they wet their whistles with steins of their favorite beer.

Initial response was an unexpected one. Dozens of bartenders and restaurant owners wrote, wired, and phoned, "No man would be allowed in to ruin my floors and carpets with ice skates on!" The brewers and their ad agency knew when they were licked. The TV commercial was redone at once!

A Williamsburg urchin was deeply offended when a friend of the family pointed out, with no malice intended, that he had buck teeth. "Looked in the mirror lately?" he inquired angrily. "Yours are lot buckier!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Soldier's heart is often used to describe the sufferings of young, healthy men who are overexposed to the stress of battle. It is sometimes called the effort disease and is readily recognized after combat by the physical fatigue, palpitation of the heart, breathlessness and dizziness.

This disturbance occasionally is referred to as a psychosomatic one but must not confuse the people or make them believe that it is not completely real. It most certainly is real and can cause a sense of apprehension and a host of other symptoms which are as real and distressing as a bullet wound or fractured leg.

Young, healthy, active men under severe stress of battle become so anxious and fearful that they cannot function. Civilians, too, can develop many of these symptoms following the death of a close relative by a heart attack. The severity of these complaints must not be casually cast off or minimized. They need to be recognized and treated both with medication and psychological support. The medical term for this complex condition is called neurocirculatory asthenia. The name tells the story of how this weakness affects the nerves and the entire vascular system of the body.

Habit tics are called spasms, or mimetic habit, and simply mean a constant repetition of uncontrolled, purposeless movements. They occur in men and women but are most common in children from the age of six to puberty. These tics or habit spasms can occur on the face, the neck, the shoulders and in almost every part of the body. They may take the form of blinking of the eyes or stretching of the throat which all becomes worse during periods of fatigue or with emotional concern.

Occasionally but rarely, tics are due to real disease. When they last for a long time this possibility must not be ruled out. When the cause is definitely thought to be psychological in origin, understanding, not punishment, is the only way to help the child overcome them. Parents must not hammer away at the defenseless child with a tic, without accepting the responsibility of making it permanent.

Psychotherapy is very effective in severe cases and often is used in combination with mild sedatives and the tranquilizers. Undue pressure on children with tics, accentuate them and make them embarrassed, tense and more emotionally distressed. With simple help and guidance most tics tend to disappear and leave no aftereffects.

Bedsore or pressure sores frequently occur in people, especially the elderly, who are bedridden for a long period of time. These ulcerations occur at pressure points like the heels, the buttocks, the elbows and the back. They are caused by the pressure of the body on the bed which then impairs the blood circulation.

The best prevention is to start movement of some kind in the bedridden by turning them from side to side and by covering the pressure points with foam rubber and other soft cushionings. Gentle massages and lubrication can prevent these unpleasant complications of chronic illnesses.

Wet dressings, not squeezing, are beneficial for face pimples.

Dilemma Of The Schools

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

What are we to do when our principles seem to fail us?

For example, we libertarians have always insisted that school districts should be autonomous. Some ten years ago, I made an extensive survey of primary education for the Wall Street Journal, and was struck by the fact that local experimentation was the source of the contemporary revitalization of the schools that had saved us from the worst excesses of "progressivism." If it hadn't been for a PTA revolt here, and a courageous decision by a local school principal there, we might have gone to the extreme of raising a whole generation of functional illiterates who, on reaching college age, would be unable to solve the mysteries of a library card index system simply because these students had never been taught the uses of the alphabet. (Don't laugh; the late Dean Bill DeVane of Yale once told me he had encountered such alphabetical delinquents among Ivy League freshmen.)

If you concede the right of the local neighborhood to run its own schools, however, you risk the chance that bad things will be done as well as good. My principles tell me that, abstractly considered, Albert Shanker, the head of the United

Federation of Teachers, is wrong and the local Ocean Hill-Brownsville "demonstration district" governing board is right in the great controversy over neighborhood school control that has been raging in New York City. Once you concede the right of decentralization, you can't be an Indian giver about it: local control means the right to hire and fire your own teachers.

Alas for us libertarians, what if a local governing board, as seems to be the case in Ocean Hill-Brownsville, is more interested in the cultivation of racial power and prestige than it is in basic education?

Does the right to choose your own curriculum in a local school district mean that you have the right to coddle students who utilize their growing knowledge of English composition to write anti-Semitic poems? Does "local control" mean that you can teach "black history" without paying due respect to the work of such leaders as Dr. Booker T. Washington and Roy Wilkins, of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who are now derided by black extremists as "Uncle Toms"? Do you support the white majority in Mt. Vernon, New York, when it tries to void a state policy of busing students? You see the difficulties: once you have granted the principle of local control, you have opened the door to people, including ideological infiltrators, who have their own ideas about the uses of education. Since they may be bad ideas, you are tempted to say that educational standards should be imposed on all our schools from some central point. But that, of course, won't work either. The central point itself might be unimaginative, wrong or even corrupt. And, obviously, a mistake made at the center could be far more dangerous than thirty or fifty mistakes in such places as Ocean Hill-Brownsville.

What we should do is not to back down on our libertarian principles, but to call for merciless exposure of infiltrators who seek to pervert local education to help their own non-academic interests. If, as has been charged by Dr. Jack Bloomfield, former head of Junior High School 271 in Ocean Hill - Brownsville, outside pressures have spoiled a genuine effort by parents to form a community council capable of establishing an "organic relationship" between school and neighborhood, the facts should be brought out despite the charges of "red hunting" or "Uncle Tomism" or whatever. Bring on the FBI, call in the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and let the chips fall where they may. If the House Committee can investigate the Ku Klux Klan, it can assuredly investigate the African-American Teachers Association, whose leader, Leslie Campbell, is accused of encouraging black anti-Semitism.

We need more of the spirit of Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, who wonders out loud why the Communist Party should be interested in posting bail for five persons arrested for unlawful assembly during a disturbance at San Fernando Valley State College in California. As is usually the case, a small group (some three hundred students) at San Fernando has tried to impose its demands on a huge, non-interested student body. If ideologists are compelled to work in the open, with their aims thoroughly identified, one could risk local control of education without fear, no matter what end of the continent is involved.

Bergman Returns

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her beauty undiminished at 53, Ingmar Bergman is here for the first Hollywood movie in 20 years.

"The last picture was 'Joan of Arc,'" she recalls, "and that was a pleasant memory. When I first came to Hollywood 10 years before that, I wanted to play Joan. It had been my girlhood ambition, and I kept trying to persuade David O. Selznick to let me do it."

"Finally I had to go to Broadway to play 'Joan of Lorraine,' and then I came back and did the picture. I understand it was not a success in this country, but it was liked in Europe, in France, especially. Many times when I am traveling about the country, the French will say, 'Ah, here is our Joan!'"

The two-time Academy Award winner ("Gaslight," 1944; "Anastasia," 1956) has returned to Columbia Pictures, where she made "Adam Had Four Sons" 29 years ago. This time her vehicle is a comedy, "The Cactus Flower."

Some observers think it's odd casting for Miss Bergman to be playing the role created by Lauren Bacall in the Broadway version. But she remarked that she almost did the play on the London stage; only the illness of her daughter prevented her. "And the movie script is somewhat changed from the play," she added. "Our script writer, Mr. (I.A.L.) Diamond went back to the French play from which 'Cactus Flower' came. So it is half French and half Abe Burrows." Burrows wrote the Broadway version.

Although she has not done a film in Hollywood for two decades, Miss Bergman appeared at the Music Center last year in the Eugene O'Neill play, "More Stately Mansions."

The physical aspects of the town have changed immensely, she commented. But the studios remain the same. "That's one thing that never seems to change," she said. "You go into a television studio and see the most modern equipment. But in the movie studios they still use the same ponderous cameras, the big lights. They are making films the same way they did 40 years ago. One thing is different, happily so. We have three weeks of rehearsal on 'Cactus Flower.' That is something I never had here before."

"When I made 'Gaslight,' I was introduced to Charles Boyer and was told 'Now you will step off the train and kiss him.' And we had only just met!"

Bomber Revival

Throughout Robert McNamara's seven years as secretary of defense, the Air Force was unable to promote any new bomber concepts. It was McNamara's position that in the missile age bombers were too slow to respond and made easy targets.

Thus, the nation has inherited an aging fleet of B-52s and little else in the bomber line. But it didn't take the Pentagon long to remedy the situation once McNamara had left. The Air Force is now developing a new dual weapon system which will depend heavily upon giant bombers for delivery.

It is called Subsonic Cruise Armed Decoy, or SCAD. Even those civilian planners in the Pentagon who agreed with McNamara's position on bombers now agree that SCAD will put the bombers back on the runway.

What SCAD does is provide a two-pronged missile attack system. The vehicle itself is a small, pilotless craft equipped with a nuclear warhead. As many as 30 could be carried on bombers, perhaps more or later models. SCAD carries a radar reflective device which makes it appear to be a large bomber on radar screens.

Thus it acts initially like a decoy. In sufficient numbers it will play havoc with an enemy's radar and ground protection systems. But SCAD's real value is in its destructiveness. Each will carry a warhead described as "much more" destructive than the bombs used on Nagasaki and Hiroshima, and it carries its own guidance system to zero in on an enemy target.

The missiles would be relatively long range, enabling the bombers to drop their payload while still out at sea, far from any form of interception.

This puts the Air Force once more back in the heavy bomber business.

Non-Dangerous Strike

At last. A strike threatens which will not endanger the nation's security. President Nixon won't find it necessary to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law, and the secretary of labor won't have to alter his plans.

For the first time in 100 years, major league baseball players are threatening to strike. The players won't show up at spring training unless the club owners agree to put more into the retirement kitty. They want more of the radio and television revenue to go toward financing pensions.

Anyway, they didn't decide on the intentional walk-out, walkout — during the playing season. As slow as some of the games are, the fans wouldn't know there was a strike on.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The railroad and the firemen's union are reaching another climax in a fight over train crews, with a wholesale introduction of the term "featherbedding" adding an emotional and popular interest in the fight.

The blowup, if one is to come, may still be a couple of months away, but it is safe to assume that White House eyes are focused on the battle. It could mean a rail strike. It will mean a test of the new administration's skills.

The issue is over whether or not the railroads should be forced to add to freight-train crews some 18,000 men whose jobs were eliminated between 1943 and 1966, following a decision by a presidential arbitration board.

That decision was limited to two years in duration and the railroads worked in a hurry to make use of it. Many firemen were transferred to comparable jobs. Others were laid off, with allowances. Job vacancies simply were not filled.

In 1966, with the decision no longer binding, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen served notice that they wanted to revert to the original situation, re-establishing the 18,000 jobs.

The railroads professed to be shocked. The firemen grimly stuck to their objective. For more than two years now the two have been in a tug-of-war, straining to win a few inches of rope but succeeding only in digging in deeper.

Making the matter a tough one for everyone involved is the fact that the arguments are infinitely interwoven in the peculiar operating structures of both railroads and union. They are also emotional and as far different as a modern diesel and an old steam locomotive.

Stalemate, the two sides agreed last June to try resolving their differences in face-to-face negotiations. Then they called in the National Mediation Board, which later decided it could do little to resolve the issues.

Instead, in January it offered binding arbitration as a way to end the dispute. The railroads agreed to the offer, but the union now merged into the larger United Transportation Union, still is considering the matter.

The situation could very well remain a stalemate. If the union rejects the offer it might then set a strike date. The Nixon administration could invoke the Railway Labor Act to postpone a walkout for 60 days, but no more.

Meanwhile, the railroad people have brought the matter to the public through a huge advertising campaign appearing in many scores of newspapers. Said a spokesman for the National Labor Railway Conference, an arm of the Association of American Railroads:

"It is the belief of the railroads that there might be no way this can be finally settled without going to the public and the elected representatives of the public. Eventually this might get to Congress."

The railroads maintain that to put 18,000 men to work would be mere featherbedding. Deists, they say, require no firemen because there's no coal to shovel and fewer guages to read. "It would cost the public $200 million a year," they say.

The union feels the railroads have descended to an indecent level in calling union efforts featherbedding. The fireman, they say, is not just an idle third man in the engine cab. He's a lookout, a safeguard against accidents.

In support of its position, the UTU notes an increase in accidents of $750 or more during the past few years. And it argues that the fireman is also an apprentice engineer, carefully learning the craft.

The railroads say they can do without the extra pair of eyes in the cab because a brakeman already handles that job. And the accidents? There could be many reasons for their increase, a railroad man says.

First, he explains, inflation has put a lot more jostling accidents into the $750 category. Secondly, the equipment being used today is more expensive. Then there is an increase in load size and in speed also.

"The union is attempting to use safety as a wedge in its campaign to return to full-fed featherbedding," the railroads state. "It's a cause for deep concern to every American."

And, says Charles Luna, president of the UTU, "Name-calling is a sick kind of refuge for those who have fallen into a poverty of fact and figure." Use of the term featherbedding, he said, is a failure of decency and logic.

"We do not feel that newspaper headlines and advertising campaigns will move us one inch near a solution," Luna adds.

Springfield Bus Line Dissolved

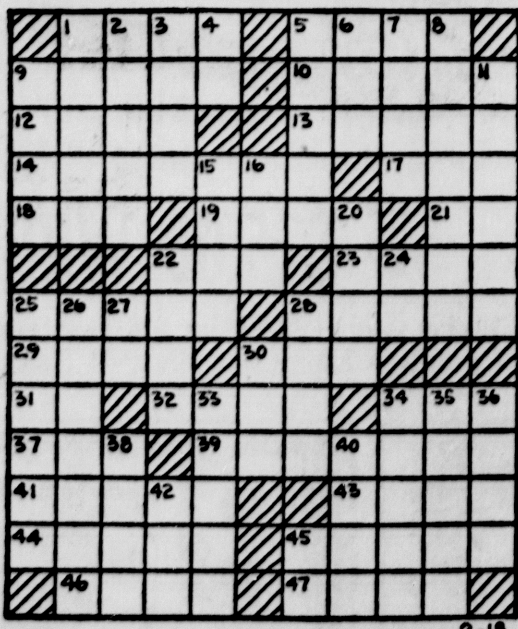

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Springfield Transit, Inc., the only public bus line serving this city of 83,000 persons, filed a petition for receivership Monday in Clark County Common Pleas Court.

The company announced last Friday that it is dissolving and will go out of business May 17. Company president Floyd Metzger cited a lack of patronage and increasing operating costs as the reasons Springfield Transit is giving up its franchise.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GUESTS AT A BANQUET honoring one of the leading citizens in an Oklahoma community got a surprise when the citizen's wife demanded that she be allowed to introduce him. Nor did her introduction contain usual phrases like "It is our privilege to honor tonight . . ." or "There is no need to tell this audience of the outstanding virtues and accomplishments . . ." No, indeed! She simply turned to him and commanded, "Get up, Eustace!"

The hazards confronting makers of elaborate TV commercials these days are accentuated by the report submitted by one of the country's leading breweries. One of their commercials opened with a shot of a crowded ice skating rink, followed by the skaters hurrying off the ice, still wearing their skates, to a bar adjacent, where, of course, they wet their whistles with steins of their favorite beer.

Initial response was an unexpected one. Dozens of bartenders and restaurant owners wrote, wired, and phoned, "No man would be allowed in to ruin my floors and carpets with ice skates on!" The brewers and their ad agency knew when they were licked. The TV commercial was redone at once!

A Williamsburg urchin was deeply offended when a friend of the family pointed out, with no malice intended, that he had buck teeth. "Looked in the mirror lately?" he inquired angrily. "Yours are too bucker!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Soldier's heart is often used to describe the sufferings of young, healthy men who are overexposed to the stress of battle. It is sometimes called the effort disease and is readily recognized after combat by the physical fatigue, palpitation of the heart, breathlessness and dizziness.

This disturbance occasionally is referred to as a psychosomatic one but must not confuse the people or make them believe that it is not completely real. It most certainly is real and can cause a sense of apprehension and a host of other symptoms which are as real and distressing as a bullet wound or fractured leg.

Young, healthy, active men under severe stress of battle become so anxious and fearful that they cannot function. Civilians, too, can develop many of these symptoms following the death of a close relative by a heart attack. The severity of these complaints must not be casually cast off or minimized. They need to be recognized and treated both with medication and psychological support. The medical term for this complex condition is called neurocirculatory asthenia. The name tells the story of how this weakness affects the nerves and the entire vascular system of the body.

Habit tics are called spasms, or mimic habit, and simply mean a constant repetition of uncontrolled, purposeless movements. They occur in men and women but are most common in children from the age of six to puberty. These tics or habit spasms can occur on the face, the neck, the shoulders and in almost every part of the body. They may take the form of blinking of the eyes or stretching of the throat which all becomes worse during periods of fatigue or with emotional concern.

Occasionally but rarely, tics are due to real disease. When they last for a long time this possibility must not be ruled out. When the cause is definitely thought to be psychological in origin, understanding, not punishment, is the only way to help the child overcome them. Parents must not hammer away at the defenseless child with a tic, without accepting the responsibility of making it permanent.

Psychotherapy is very effective in severe cases and often is used in combination with mild sedatives and the tranquilizers. Undue pressure

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

What are we to do when our principles seem to fail us? For example, we libertarians have always insisted that school districts should be autonomous. Some ten years ago, I made an extensive survey of primary education for the Wall Street Journal, and was struck by the fact that local experimentation was the source of the contemporary revitalization of the schools that had saved us from the worst excesses of "progressivism." If it hadn't been for a PTA revolt here, and a courageous decision by a local school principal there, we might have gone to the extreme of raising a whole generation of functional illiterates who, on reaching college age, would be unable to solve the mysteries of a library card index system simply because these students had never been taught the uses of the alphabet. (Don't laugh; the late Dean Bill DeVane of Yale once told me he had encountered such alphabetical delinquents among Ivy League freshmen.)

If you concede the right of the local neighborhood to run its own schools, however, you risk the chance that bad things will be done as well as good. My principles tell me that, abstractly considered, Albert Shanker, the head of the United

Federation of Teachers, is wrong and the local Ocean Hill-Brownsville "demonstration district" governing board is right in the great controversy over neighborhood school control that has been rending New York City. Once you concede the right of decentralization, you can't be an Indian giver about it: local control means the right to hire and fire your own teachers.

Alas for us libertarians, what if a local governing board, as seems to be the case in Ocean Hill-Brownsville, is more interested in the cultivation of racial power and prestige than it is in basic education?

Overdue Books Finally Returned

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Two books which have been missing for a total of 113 years have been returned to the St. Louis Public Library.

One, a guide for teaching English, was withdrawn in 1911 and recently was discovered among the effects of a retired teacher in a nursing home.

The other, on composition and rhetoric, was taken out in 1914 and was found in the Military Airlift Command library at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. The base librarian returned it with a note saying she didn't know where it had come from, but thought the St. Louis library might like to have it back.

Stop Signs Work

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Posting four-way stop signs reduced accidents at 57 intersections from 173 in 1967 to 23 in 1968, says David M. Smallwood, city streets commissioner.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

A stagnant weather pattern continues and no appreciable change is indicated in Ohio's weather for the next two to three days.

Very little movement is forecast for the high pressure ridge in the Plains, the low pressure system north of the upper Great Lakes and the low that is well off the Middle Atlantic Coast. This means temperatures will continue near the normal for the season through Thursday.

Mansfield with one inch as of Monday morning was the only location reporting more than a trace of snow on the ground in the state.

Tonight's lows will generally range in the 20s and Wednesday's highs will be similar to the maximum readings of today.

Thursday's outlook shows mostly fair weather with seasonable temperatures.

Ask Ruling On Confession

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The 11th District Court of Appeals was asked Monday to rule admissible the confessions of Fred M. Esherrick Jr., 17, telling police how his father was killed in their home here May 5, 1967.

A Lake County Common Pleas Court jury convicted Esherrick Dec. 6, 1967, of first-degree murder without recommendation of mercy—making the death penalty mandatory—for the boy's slaying of the youth's adoptive father. The conviction is being appealed.

The former Painesville Harvey High School sophomore also was convicted of trying to kill his adoptive mother, Aldona Esherrick, who was the state's chief witness against him at his murder trial.

Judge John F. Clair Jr. barred the state from using the youth's confessions at his trial, ruling that Esherrick, then 16, did not fully understand his constitutional rights.

Assistant County Prosecutor Paul H. Mitrovich said Monday that Judge Clair's decision creates a new constitutional right for defendants. Under the decision police are not only required to warn a defendant, but to determine his state of mind, Mitrovich added.

Prosecution Tries To Show RFK Slaying Premeditated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With witness after witness, the prosecution is attempting to show that Sirhan Bishara Sirhan planned the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—and even practiced for it on the day before the assassination.

On today's witness schedule were two men who had told a grand jury they saw Sirhan practice rapid firing at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club in suburban Duarte.

The defense contends the killing of Kennedy, flush from victory in the California Democratic presidential primary, was "unplanned and undeliberate, impulsive and without premeditation or malice." Premeditation is a key element in a finding of first degree murder.

Kennedy was shot in a kitchen area of the Ambassador Hotel on June 5, as he left a victory celebration.

A kitchen helper, Jesus Perez, was asked Monday if he had seen Sirhan in the pantry. He said yes, a half hour before the shooting.

Q. Did you talk to the defendant before the shooting?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell the jury what you told him and what he told you?

A. He asked me if Kennedy was coming through that place.

Q. Was that question asked before the senator was shot?

A. Yes.

Q. How long was the question asked before the senator was shot?

A. I'd say about a half hour.

Q. Did you answer Mr. Sirhan?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you say?

A. That I didn't know anything about whether the senator was coming through there or not.

Other hotel employees and members of the Kennedy party testified that the decision to go through the pantry area was made at the last minute.

After two days of testimony the state had called 12 witnesses, including members of

Woman, 111, Gets Card From Nixons

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Martha Nicholas Brown was 111 Monday and among the many birthday cards and messages of congratulations she received was one from President Nixon, who said:

"Mrs. Nixon joins me in extending warmest congratulations on this auspicious milestone... may God bless you always."

The telegram brought a smile of contentment to the little, white-haired lady, who lives with her son, Louis, 70.

She had seven children, and most of her 13 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren helped her celebrate.

"She still remembers the black drapes in Philadelphia store windows when Lincoln was shot," Louis, a retired waiter, said. She was born on Feb. 17, 1858, and was seven years old when Lincoln was assassinated.

Mrs. Brown is a former seamstress and a teacher.

Until she was 92, she made quilts and rag rugs for a hobby. Now she watches baseball and wrestling on television.

Payments Balance Surplus Temporary, Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first balance of payments surplus in over a decade was more apparent than real and should not be read as meaning the dollar drain has been ended, government spokesmen say.

In announcing the $190 million surplus for 1968, the Commerce Department said Sunday there were several factors indicating continued trouble in the United States' position.

For one thing, the steady flow of gold out of the country continued. The official U.S. stock of gold fell by nearly $1.2 billion during the year.

Also, the value of U.S. goods exported in 1968 only exceeded the worth of products imported by less than $100 million. This important factor used to be billions of dollars in favor of the United States. In fact, the country exported $3.5 billion more than it bought from overseas in 1967, a year in which the United States suffered a total balance of payments deficit of $3.6 billion.

The balance of payments is a comparison of the total spent by American business, individuals and government on foreign goods and services against the value of U.S. products and services bought by overseas purchasers.

It includes everything from the few dollars a traveling Iowa schoolteacher pays for a trinket in Rome to the millions a U.S. shipline would pay for a Japanese-built oil tanker.

The Commerce Department said the first balance of payments surplus since 1957 was entirely due to a "pronounced shift" in the closing weeks of December culminating in a $960 million surplus for the quarter — enough to offset deficit figures in two of the three previous quarters.

Finch Says School Lawsuits Filed Without His Knowing

Jewish Labels Are Forbidden

LONDON (AP) — British servicemen assigned to the Middle East will be told to cut "Jewish labels" from their clothing, the Ministry of Defense announced.

"Arabs are likely to confiscate the clothing if they see the tags," a spokesman said. "A simple matter like a soldier hanging up in public a shirt or jacket with a brand label of a Jewish firm could cause trouble."

"We do not want to inflame the political situation in Arab countries in any way," an army spokesman added.

filed recent school desegregation suits in the South without consulting him.

Finch wrote off the incident as part of the birth pangs of a new administration, but he called for more coordination in the future.

"We're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation," he said. "But we haven't been in office long enough to get that working relationship established yet."

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed the lawsuits in Louisiana and Houston a few days after Finch had described the cutting off of federal aid as the ultimate weapon in school segregation disputes.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Finch said the files on the Southern school districts were turned over to the attorney general. "The timing and the nature and the institution of these actions are entirely under his control, and are not done in relation to this department," he said.

Finch made these other points:

—His department is following,

Plenty Of Territory

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Congressman-elect Ed Foreman of Las Cruces said the New Mexico district he will represent is twice as large geographically as a West Texas district he served from for one term in 1962.

The Republican said his district takes in three-fourths of New Mexico, has 85,000 square miles and its 18 counties have an estimated population of 505,000. The two most distant points — from Jal in the southeast to Shiprock in the northwest — are 700 miles apart.

but re-examining, school desegregation guidelines inherited from the Democratic administration.

—The Supreme Court has prohibited "deliberate discrimination" but not segregation as such.

"If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in fact, is not prohibited by law," Finch said.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination. And so you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination."

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Finch said a proposal by a Nixon task force for setting a federal floor under welfare payments was being considered.

"It's not a case of taking over the functions of the states in the welfare field," he said. "It's a case of trying to find a broker."

Dear Abby: Who Should Take Johnny To Barber?

DEAR ABBY: Don't faint, but I am a very happily married woman. My problem is a small one, compared to most, and my husband and I have decided to let you settle it.

Who do you think should take our seven-year-old son to the barbershop?

My husband thinks I should take him after school. I think my husband should take him when HE goes to get his hair cut on Saturday afternoons.

I think it's "sissy" for a boy to be taken to a barbershop by his mother. But when his father takes him, it helps make

Views On TV - Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Monday night's power-packed NBC lineup—"Laugh-In," Bob Hope and Jack Benny specials in succession—probably ran the evening's Nielsen ratings up to the stratosphere.

Even if "Laugh-In" is beginning to look a little tired around the edges, it is still TV's most popular weekly series, and the two hours that followed measured up to the high standards of the two pros who starred in them.

Hope's program after the comedians opening monologue, turned into an old-fashioned Vaudeville show. He played the magician in one of those magic acts that misfired. George Burns, with the help of a young protegee, ran through one of the nonsense routines he used to do with Gracie Allen. Martha Raye mugged and crowned her way through a song number. And Hope with Bing Crosby did a comedy turn full of elderly, dreadful—and funny jokes.

Although Hope seemed to be taking things a little easier than usual after his recent eye trouble, he made light of it in his monologue—tossing out a casual crack about his "red eye" along with a couple of flip references to the vice presidency.

Jack Benny and company had a really hilarious hour, ostensibly to celebrate the star's 75th birthday. From the moment Lawrence Welk opened the show by doing a Benny impersonation, of all things, to a witty and bright study of the classic Western, the show was full of surprise turns.

Lucille Ball did a song and dance number with the chorus boys. A pride—or maybe it was a gaggle—of penguins occasionally interrupted Jack's discussions with the audience by waddling across the stage—and one of them was on roller skates.

The song, dance, monologues and nonsense led up to a big birthday cake.

There was nothing in either show that could have given the network censors a moment's disquiet, yet they were amusing and evoked laughter.

The thought crossed this viewer's mind toward the end of three solid hours of variety-type entertainment: Does the audience that finds Hope witty and bright and Benny warmly funny also think that Tiny Tim—who was blowing kisses around "Laugh-In" earlier—is a comical figure. The "Laugh-In" crowd obviously finds him a figure of fun, sometimes to a point where this viewer finds it uncomfortable to watch.

ABC still isn't making any announcements, but the trade rumors are that "Turn-On's" replacement will be some part of that large, durable, flexible King family which will roll out some short musical shows on short notice.

Recommended tonight: "Australia: The Timeless Land," CBS, 7:30-8:30 EST, another in the National Geographic Society series; "Sixty Minutes," CBS, 10-11, magazine format show including a feature on the ski craze and interview with a radical French student.

Police Say IRS Agents Were Drunk

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two policemen opened testimony Monday in the U.S. District Court trial here of an Internal Revenue Service agent charged with intoxication and using profane language.

Columbus vice squadman David Verne, one of the officers who arrested IRS agent James M. Kowalski last July 26, said Kowalski smelled of liquor, was unsteady and had difficulty with his speech at the time of arrest.

Verne testified he and another vice squad officer, Thomas M. McGovern, found Kowalski huddled in an alley behind an unmarked police car. When asked what he was doing, Verne said, Kowalski profanely told Verne it was none of his business.

McGovern was called as the second witness and was expected to return to testify Tuesday.

Three federal agents were arrested at the same time. Guy I. Wetherell, another IRS agent charged with improper language and intoxication is to be tried Feb. 24. Edward Joyce, an attorney with the U.S. Justice Department, will be tried Feb. 27 on a charge of intoxication. All are being tried in District Court.

The three say their arrests represent harassment because they reportedly were investigating allegations of gambling pay-offs to high Columbus city and police figures.

Speech Clinic Slates Slides On Hearing Loss

A recording, with slides, explaining different hearing losses will be presented at the Saturday Speech and Hearing Clinic Saturday in the Mound Street Elementary School Gymnasium.

The presentations will be at 9, 9:45, 10:45, 11:30 and 12:45.

This will enable people to understand the problems which exist with different hearing losses.

David A. Spidal, clinic supervisor, has extended an invitation to parents, teachers, school principals, doctors, nurses and other interested persons, to visit the clinic this Saturday for one of these presentations.

Westfall Board Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Westfall Board of Education approved an advance draw of $40,000 during its regular meeting Monday to pay March bills.

The board last night met with representatives of the Westfall Teachers Assn. to discuss common problems.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Sandra Hayes, first grade teacher at Darby, effective Feb. 26. Mrs. Hayes husband has been transferred to Louisiana.

Mrs. Glenda Anderson was employed to fill the post for the remainder of the year. A graduate of Ohio University, Mrs. Anderson has two years' experience.

The board of education passed a resolution to participate in cooperative buying of school supplies on a three county basis. Fairfield, Ross and Pickaway Counties are involved in the buying.

Moose Lodge To Be Chartered

A Circleville lodge of the Loyal Order Of Moose will be instituted 2 p.m. Sunday at the 4-H and Grange Building at the Fairgrounds.

The lodge will be chartered with 50 members. Initiation of the members will take place at the meeting.

State Director Hawley will be present. It has been 20 years since there was a Moose Lodge in Circleville.

Solons May Delay A-Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, in a move that could further delay Senate approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, has announced plans for hearings on military aspects of the pact.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., indicated Monday the hearings would start after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee winds up its own inquiry starting today with Secretary of State William P. Rogers as the leadoff witness.

Foreign Relations, which held hearings last year on the treaty that would ban the spread of nuclear arms, is expected to give it prompt approval.

But while that committee has long been in favor of the treaty,

the move by Armed Services

brought to a vote before Congress adjourned.

The treaty would bind nuclear powers to keep atomic weapons out of the hands of countries that do not now have them, but would permit sharing peaceful uses of nuclear power.

It would take effect with ratification by this country, Great Britain, Russia and any 40 other countries. It has been ratified to date only by Great Britain and six nonnuclear nations.

The other two nuclear powers, France and Red China, have said they will not sign.

The treaty will need a two-thirds vote of approval—or 67 senators in favor if all 100 are present—when it is called up on the floor.

Its backers see an immediate advantage in holding down the number of countries that have nuclear weapons and a potential long-range advantage of an end to the nuclear arms race.

Critics protest that inspection procedures are inadequate, that this country should not foreclose

the possibility it might some day want to provide nuclear arms to an ally and that a pro vision allowing withdrawal on 90 days notice renders the pledges involved almost worthless.

Those are among the points expected to be covered by the Armed Services Committee.

Stennis said the hearings would be brief.

Dear Abby: Who Should Take Johnny To Barber?

DEAR ABBY: Don't faint, but I am a very happily married woman. My problem is a small one, compared to most, and my husband and I have decided to let you settle it.

Who do you think should take our seven-year-old son to the barbershop?

My husband thinks I should take him after school. I think my husband should take him when HE goes to get his hair cut on Saturday afternoons.

I think it's "sissy" for a boy to be taken to a barbershop by his mother. But when his father takes him, it helps make

Views On TV - Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Monday night's power-packed NBC lineup—"Laugh-In," Bob Hope and Jack Benny specials in succession—probably ran the evening's Nielsen ratings up to the stratosphere.

Even if "Laugh-In" is beginning to look a little tired around the edges, it is still TV's most popular weekly series, and the two hours that followed measured up to the high standards of the two pros who starred in them.

Hope's program after the comedians opening monologue, turned into an old-fashioned Vaudeville show. He played the magician in one of those magic acts that misfired. George Burns, with the help of a young protegee, ran through one of the nonsense routines he used to do with Gracie Allen. Martha Raye mugged and cowered her way through a song number. And Hope with Bing Crosby did a comedy turn full of elderly, dreadful—and funny jokes.

Although Hope seemed to be taking things a little easier than usual after his recent eye trouble, he made light of it in his monologue—tossing out a casual crack about his "red eye" along with a couple of flip references to the vice presidency.

Jack Benny and company had a really hilarious hour, ostensibly to celebrate the star's 75th birthday. From the moment Lawrence Welk opened the show by doing a Benny impersonation, of all things, to a witty and bright study of the classic Western, the show was full of surprise turns.

Lucille Ball did a song and dance number with the chorus boys. A pride—or maybe it was a gaggle—of penguins occasionally interrupted Jack's discussions with the audience by waddling across the stage—and one of them was on roller skates.

The song, dance, monologues and nonsense led up to a big birthday cake.

There was nothing in either show that could have given the network censors a moment's disquiet, yet they were amusing and evoked laughter.

The thought crossed this viewer's mind toward the end of three solid hours of variety-type entertainment: Does the audience that finds Hope witty and bright and Benny warmly funny also think that Tiny Tim—who was blowing kisses around "Laugh-In" earlier—is a comical figure. The "Laugh-In" crowd obviously finds him a figure of fun, sometimes to a point where this viewer finds it uncomfortable to watch.

ABC still isn't making any announcements, but the trade rumors are that "Turn-On's" replacement will be some part of that large, durable, flexible King family which will roll out some short musical shows on short notice.

Police Say IRS Agents Were Drunk

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two policemen opened testimony Monday in the U.S. District Court trial here of an Internal Revenue Service agent charged with intoxication and using profane language.

Columbus vice squadsmen David Verne, one of the officers who arrested IRS agent James M. Kowalski last July 26, said Kowalski smelled of liquor, was unsteady and had difficulty with his speech at the time of arrest.

Verne testified he and another vice squad officer, Thomas M. McGovern, found Kowalski huddled in an alley behind an unmarked police car. When asked what he was doing, Verne said, Kowalski profanely told Verne it was none of his business.

McGovern was called as the second witness and was expected to return to testify Tuesday.

Three federal agents were arrested at the same time. Guy I. Wetherell, another IRS agent charged with improper language and intoxication is to be tried Feb. 24. Edward Joyce, an attorney with the U.S. Justice Department, will be tried Feb. 27 on a charge of intoxication. All are being tried in District Court.

The three say their arrests represent harassment because they reportedly were investigating allegations of gambling pay-offs to high Columbus city and police figures.

Solons May Delay A-Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, in a move that could further delay Senate approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, has announced plans for hearings on military aspects of the pact.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., indicated Monday the hearings would start after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee winds up its own inquiry starting today with Secretary of State William P. Rogers as the leadoff witness.

Foreign Relations, which held hearings last year on the treaty that would ban the spread of nuclear arms, is expected to give it prompt approval.

But while that committee has long been in favor of the treaty, the move by Armed Services could provide a forum or rallying point for critics unhappy with inspection procedures and other provisions.

Rogers, in his first appearance as secretary before a congressional committee, had the assignment of following up on President Nixon's request of Feb. 5 that the Senate "act promptly to consider the treaty and give its advice and consent to ratification."

Secretary of Defense Melvin M. Laird will appear Thursday in support of the presidential request.

The Foreign Relations Committee approved the treaty after an initial round of testimony last September but it was not brought to a vote before Congress adjourned.

The treaty would bind nuclear powers to keep atomic weapons out of the hands of countries that do not now have them, but would permit sharing peaceful uses of nuclear power.

It would take effect with ratification by this country, Great Britain, Russia and any 40 other countries. It has been ratified to date only by Great Britain and six nonnuclear nations.

The other two nuclear powers, France and Red China, have said they will not sign.

The treaty will need a two-thirds vote of approval—or 67 senators in favor if all 100 are present—when it is called up on the floor.

Its backers see an immediate advantage in holding down the number of countries that have nuclear weapons and a potential long-range advantage of an end to the nuclear arms race.

Critics protest that inspection procedures are inadequate, that this country should not foreclose the possibility it might some day want to provide nuclear arms to an ally and that a provision allowing withdrawal on 90 days notice renders the pledges involved almost worthless.

Those are among the points expected to be covered by the Armed Services Committee.

Stennis said the hearings would be brief.

Diplomats Say Viet Talk Deadlock Means Progress

By STEPHENS BROENING Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Experienced diplomats foresee a new deadlock at the Vietnam peace talks but say it may provide the first sign of progress.

The new complication in the already stalemated talks, is expected to arise between the United States and its Saigon allies over the question of negotiating South Vietnam's political future.

Saigon rejects any such negotiations as interference in South Vietnam's internal affairs. South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam said Monday: "For us, an international conference is not the appropriate framework for discussing internal problems."

Saigon's announced objective at the talks is to get all North Vietnamese forces out of South Vietnam and end the "Communist aggression." U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge supports Lam at the conference table to the extent that he emphasizes military de-escalation and re-establishing the demilitarized zone as a "first practical step."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have demanded the unconditional withdrawal of U.S. troops and voluntary dissolution of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon regime.

Allied negotiators expect that at some point, probably in secret talks, Hanoi and the NLF will be willing to bargain for an exchange of concessions. Diplomats say this is when the United States and the South Vietnamese government will clash again, with Washington trying to convince Saigon to talk politics, with its enemies.

A similar deadlock occurred last fall when the Americans were trying to get the Saigon leaders to sit down with the NLF in Paris.

One well placed South Vietnamese source conceded that a U.S.-South Vietnamese standoff was probable, but added: "Given the way the talks are bogged down now, that prospect seems a long way off."

Nixon Makes Light Of Row Over Rogers Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is finding a source of jokes in something that could have been anything but a laughing matter for his administration—the short-lived appointment of Willie Mae Rogers as consumer affairs consultant.

Nixon paid a surprise visit Monday to a party his wife, Pat, gave for 144 newswomen and Cabinet wives and recalled that he had been criticized at his second news conference for having named only three women to government posts.

"I realized that was a legitimate criticism so I just went out and appointed a woman consultant on consumer affairs," Nixon said. Then he added, to laughter, "That shows what can happen when you listen to criticism from the press."

Miss Rogers quit her consultant's position over the weekend after her decision to continue as the salaried director of the Good Housekeeping Institute and keeper of its seal of good house-keeping prompted a storm of criticism.

Nixon even read a Valentine "purported" to be from Miss Rogers.

"Faces are red, consumers are blue: four days for me, four years for you."

"I was thinking about eight years," the President added. He promised his administration will continue to give women an increasing role in government. He told the newspaperwomen with a smile that he welcomed their "seal of approval."

Strike Slows Bridge Work

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — The latest work stoppage on the new Ohio River bridge being built to replace the Silver Bridge has ended, but builders say construction now is two months behind schedule.

Members of Laborers Local 543 of Huntington, W. Va., who walked off the job last week in a jurisdictional dispute, returned Monday, pending further negotiations.

The laborers had contended they should have the job of drilling the holes for the bridge piling instead of the Pile Drivers Union. Laborer picket lines had kept other union workers off the job.

Edward Goza of the Al Johnson Construction Co. said work would resume today on a stepped-up 20-hour-a-day seven-day-a-week schedule in an effort to have the bridge finished by its September completion date.

The bridge will cross the Ohio River between Henderson, W. Va., and Kanawha, Ohio.

Strike Slows

Bridge Work

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — The latest work stoppage on the new Ohio River bridge being built to replace the Silver Bridge has ended, but builders say construction now is two months behind schedule.

Members of Laborers Local 543 of Huntington, W. Va., who walked off the job last week in a jurisdictional dispute, returned Monday, pending further negotiations.

The laborers had contended they should have the job of drilling the holes for the bridge piling instead of the Pile Drivers Union. Laborer picket lines had kept other union workers off the job.

Edward Goza of the Al Johnson Construction Co. said work would resume today on a stepped-up 20-hour-a-day seven-day-a-week schedule in an effort to have the bridge finished by its September completion date.

The bridge will cross the Ohio River between Henderson, W. Va., and Kanauga, Ohio.

A service at 3 p.m. will begin with 15 minutes of devotion led by Mrs. Edna Gillis and Mrs. Pauline Jones. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Shelby Doughty, pastor of Mt. Hermon Baptist Church of Columbus. Music will be furnished by the

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A pair of Mid-American Conference teams ventured outside the loop Monday night in an abbreviated Ohio college basketball schedule. Ohio University beat Loyola Chicago 103-92. St. Bonaventure bombed Kent State 81-58.

Rebounds made the big difference for Ohio U., which picked off 65 compared with Loyola's 47. The Bobcats also shot at a 47.3 per cent clip from the field, compared with Loyola's 43.

Ohio built up several 10-12 point margins in the course of the game which the Ramblers whittled down but couldn't surpass. Gerald McKee paced the Bobcats to their 13th victory in 21 starts with 20 points. Doug Parker and Greg McDivitt added 15 apiece.

Bob Lanier scored 28 points and grabbed 23 rebounds to lead St. Bonaventure past Kent State. Tom Lagodich led Kent with 15 points, 13 of them in the first half, as the Golden Flashes slipped to 12-9 on the season.

Bluffton led all the way in an 81-69 Mid-Ohio Conference victory over Findlay. Jim Langhals put away 250 points for the Beavers; Frank Minnig paced the losers with 22.

Cleveland State journeyed to Detroit to edge Wayne State 71-69 and Wilberforce shaded visiting Northwood of Indiana 72-68.

Highlights in World of Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets is about to relieve Wilt Chamberlain of a treasured spot in the National Basketball Association record book, but he's not the only star performing scoring heroics.

Hayes, the NBA's scoring leader, is on his way to becoming the first rookie to lead the NBA in that category since Wilt Chamberlain did it in 1959.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford's Donnie Allison blitzed the 2.5 mile tri-oval Daytona International Speedway Monday in the second fastest qualifying time yet recorded for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., was clocked at 189.374 miles per hour in a Ford Torino powered by an engine that wasn't supposed to race.

Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., roared around the track at 189.897 m.p.h. Friday in a Dodge Charger to set the qualifying record.

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Esposito's assault on the National Hockey League scoring record will have to wait awhile. Boston's slick center won't be doing any scoring for the next two games.

Esposito will miss Wednesday's game against Pittsburgh and Sunday's against New York because of a suspension handed down Monday by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

Campbell sat Esposito down for shoving and punching referee Bob Sloan during the Feb. 8 game between the Bruins and the Philadelphia Flyers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Toomey, Olympic decathlon champion, will head the field in indoor track's first demi-decathlon event at the U.S. Invitationals meet Friday.

The Laguna Beach, Calif., star, named Monday, will face challenges from Olympic teammates Dr. Tom Wadell, Rick Sloan and Dave Thoreson for the five-event special attraction at Madison Square Garden.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Charger safety Kenny Graham, who played out his option last season, has agreed to terms for 1969, the American Football League team announced Monday.

Graham, who will be starting his sixth season as a Charger, would have become a free agent April 1 if he had not signed a new contract. Terms were not disclosed.

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — An Indian cyclist claimed Monday he had set a world cycle endurance record when he pedaled for 100 hours in a stadium here.

Mohamed Newad was applauded by a crowd of several thousand as he circled around the stadium. He never stopped during the lonely race.

Newad managed to eat, wash and even shave while he kept on pedaling. When he stepped off his bike, he immediately fell fast asleep.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Clark Graebner, second ranked in the United States, is the early favorite in the Macon International Tennis Tournament opening today. The New Yorker was a semifinalist in the event last year.

Other standout U.S. performers entered are a fourth ranked Cliff Rickey of San Angelo, Tex., sixth-ranked Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., and eighth-ranked Jim Osborne of Honolulu.

Safety Allen Brenner was Michigan State's most valuable football player in 1968. He received the Governor of Michigan award. In the upset of Notre Dame, Brenner saved three touchdowns.

Carol Mann won 10 of 32 golf tournaments in 1968 and earned an official $45,921.50.

Williams Signing Is Delayed Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams says he is excited about his impending signing as manager of the downtrodden Washington Senators. But it appeared today the former star slugger will have to postpone celebration of his million dollar deal with owner Bob Short for at least another 24 hours.

The delay in naming Williams as manager of the last-place American League club was caused by need for additional time to work out details concerning the estimated 10 per cent or $900,000 chunk of Senators stock on which he'll have options to purchase.

Oakland Oaks Pound Houston; Win, 149-122

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warren Armstrong and Doug Moe are the new drum majors in Oakland's point parade as the Oaks march on toward the American Basketball Association's Western Division title.

With Armstrong and Moe taking up the scoring slack for Rick Barry, out for the season with a knee injury, the Oaks pounded the Houston Mavericks 149-122 Monday night for their 2nd victory in 52 games.

Armstrong hit for 34 points—15 of them in the first quarter—and Moe canned 33 as the Oaks stretched their lead over idle Denver to 10 games.

Bob Warren scored a career high of 30 points, leading the Los Angeles Stars past the New Orleans Buccaneers 107-104 in the only other game scheduled.

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Irishman Pat McMahon scored an easy victory Monday in the third annual 20-mile Silver Lake Dodge road race. McMahon, recent graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University, covered much of the Boston A. A. Marathon route in one hour, 51 minutes, 46 seconds.

Hayes, the NBA's scoring leader, is on his way to becoming the first rookie to lead the NBA in that category since Wilt Chamberlain did it in 1959.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford's Donnie Allison blizzed the 2.5 mile tri-oval Daytona International Speedway Monday in the second fastest qualifying time yet recorded for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., was clocked at 189.374 miles per hour in a Ford Torino powered by an engine that wasn't supposed to race.

Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., roared around the track at 189.897 m.p.h. Friday in a Dodge Charger to set the qualifying record.

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Esposito's assault on the National Hockey League scoring record will have to wait awhile. Boston's slick center won't be doing any scoring for the next two games.

Esposito will miss Wednesday's game against Pittsburgh and Sunday's against New York because of a suspension handed down Monday by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

Campbell sat Esposito down for shoving and punching referee Bob Sloan during the Feb. 8 game between the Bruins and the Philadelphia Flyers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Toomey, Olympic decathlon champion, will head the field in indoor track's first demi-decathlon event at the U.S. Invitational meet Friday.

The Laguna Beach, Calif., star, named Monday, will face challenges from Olympic teammates Dr. Tom Wadell, Rick Sloan and Dave Thoreson for the five-event special attraction at Madison Square Garden.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Charger safety Kenny Graham, who played out his option last season, has agreed to terms for 1969, the American Football League team announced Monday.

Graham, who will be starting his sixth season as a Charger, would have become a free agent April 1 if he had not signed a new contract. Terms were not disclosed.

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — An Indian cyclist claimed Monday he had set a world cycle endurance record when he pedaled for 100 hours in a stadium here.

Mohamed Newad was applauded by a crowd of several thousand as he circled around the stadium. He never stopped during the lonely race.

Newad managed to eat, wash and even shave while he kept on pedaling. When he stepped off his bike, he immediately fell fast asleep.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Clark Graebner, second ranked in the United States, is the early favorite in the Macon International Tennis Tournament opening today. The New Yorker was a semifinalist in the event last year.

Other standout U.S. performers entered are a fourth ranked Cliff Rickey of San Angelo, Tex., sixth-ranked Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., and eighth-ranked Jim Osborne of Honolulu.

Safety Allen Brenner was Michigan State's most valuable football player in 1968. He received the Governor of Michigan award. In the upset of Notre Dame, Brenner saved three touchdowns.

Carol Mann won 10 of 32 golf tournaments in 1968 and earned an official $45,921.50.

Williams Signing Is Delayed Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams says he is excited about his impending signing as manager of the downtrodden Washington Senators. But it appeared today the former star slugger will have to postpone celebration of his million dollar deal with owner Bob Short for at least another 24 hours.

The delay in naming Williams as manager of the last-place American League club was caused by need for additional time to work out details concerning the estimated 10 per cent or $900,000 chunk of Senators stock on which he'll have options to purchase.

1. Card of Thanks

In memory of Paul Jewell Hill on his 25th birthday.
We cannot send a birthday card.
Your hand we cannot touch.
Today there will be no gifts and cake.
For the one we loved so much.
For in a graveside softly sleeping.
Where the flowers gently wave.
Lies the one we loved so dearly.
But whom we could not save.
God alone knows how we miss him.
As he counts the tears we shed.
For He whispers, "He is only sleeping."
So on this his birthday.
"Forgive us Lord," we pray.
Why couldn't he have stayed?
His Wife, Parents and Sister

Major Cage Rankings Change

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Santa Clara's Broncoes moved into the runner-up position behind UCLA in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today as part of a wholesale shuffle resulting from the 12-losses suffered by members of the rankings teams last week.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters, UCLA remained a unanimous choice for first place. The Bruins boosted their record to 19-0 in last week's action by trouncing Washington State 83-59 in their only start.

Santa Clara, third a week ago, advanced one place after beating San Francisco 72-47 for its 21st victory without a loss. North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina, slipped one notch to third. The upset also resulted in the advancement of South Carolina to the No. 12 spot. The Gamecocks were not ranked last week.

Claude Harmon Describes Job As Pro To King Hussan

NEW YORK (AP) — Claude Harmon admitted today that he had some misgivings when he got an urgent call from King Hussan II of Morocco to rush over and cure his slice.

"I didn't know what to think," added the paunchy master of the Winged Foot Club in Marmonese, N.Y., and Thunderbird in Palm Springs, Calif. "I was afraid if he kept on slicing he might have me put against a wall and shot."

But it wasn't that way at all, the former Masters champion in describing the tribulations of trying to teach golf to a king.

"The king is really a very mild fellow on the golf course," the famed pro related. "If he blew his stack and dropped a little profanity in Arabic, I never saw it or heard it."

Expect Rejection Of Seals Move
NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland Seals' application for transfer of their National Hockey League franchise out of the Bay Area was expected to be turned down today by the NHL's Board of Governors.

The Seals, struggling at the gate both last season and this, were hoping for approval to move to Buffalo, N.Y., where a group headed by banker Seymour Knox III has purchased the team conditional upon its transfer.

"The king is really a very mild fellow on the golf course," the famed pro related. "If he blew his stack and dropped a little profanity in Arabic, I never saw it or heard it."

"When things go badly, he accepts it complacently, shrugs his shoulders and says, in effect, 'That's the way the ball bounces.' He's learned all the American traits and idioms. 'It's the wildest thing you ever saw," Harmon continued. "He usually plays with a couple of generals or some of his palace guard. He runs the country from the golf course."

"There are people around with brief cases under their arms. The king will hit a ball and then reach over and sign some paper or other. He'll hit another ball and then go into a conference on the state of the treasury."

"I said, 'Your Majesty, you can't play golf like that. Not even Arnold Palmer could score with so many interruptions.' He looked at me stonily and said, 'I must run my country.'"

Milwaukee And Cincy Win Games

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets made it clear he was not complaining, just observing.

But after a National Basketball Association doubleheader Monday night, the only action in the league, Shue's poignant comparison left little to the imagination.

"Flynn Robinson drove to the basket once in the first game and he shot 22 free throws," Shue said. "It's hard to understand how Earl Monroe, who lives in heavy traffic, could only shoot three."

Robinson missed only one of his foul shots and connected on 11 of 20 field goal attempts as he scored 43 points and led Milwaukee, last in the Eastern Division, to a 123-111 victory over Atlanta, the second-place team in the West.

Monroe, who attempts most of his shots after driving in close, scored 30 points as Baltimore's Eastern Division leaders lost 117-112 to the Cincinnati Royals. Monroe sank 14 of 31 field goals tries, and was two-for-three from the foul line.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

EDITORS NOTE: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I'm all set to file my return but my W-2 hasn't come yet. What should I do?

A. Wait until your W-2 arrives. The law requires employers to issue tax withholding statements to employees by January 31 or you should receive the statement shortly.

Q. If you don't get your W-2 statement by January 31 ask your employer about it.

Q. Where can I get a copy of the new 1040 ES tax form?

A. About 13 million new estimated tax form packages will be mailed to taxpayers February 1. If you filed an estimated tax declaration last year or owed more than $40 when you filed your 1967 return, you will receive a 1040 ES form. Declaration of Estimated Income Tax for Individuals, in the mail.

The new forms are pre-addressed to assure proper identification of estimated tax credits. Be sure to use your pre-addressed form when you file. Others filing for the first time should get a Form 1040 ES from their District Director.

Q. When parents are divorced which one gets to claim the children as dependents?

A. Generally the parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the dependency exemption. However, if the other parent contributes at least $600 during the year to the support of the child he or she may be entitled to the exemption. There is no special rule for a parent who furnishes more than $1,200 of support during the year but does not have custody.

These rules apply only if the divorced or separated parents together provide more than half of the child's support and have custody for more than half of the year. For further details get Publication 501, Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents, from your District Director.

Q. I operate my farm on a cash basis. Does this mean I won't have to figure out my inventories for tax purposes?

A. Farmers using the cash method do not have to report the value of their inventories for tax purposes. However, you should keep good records so that income and expenses can be accurately reported.

Q. If I file my return now, how long will it take for me to get my refund?

A. The normal processing cycle for refunds mailed now is 5-6 weeks if the return is accurate and complete. Send your return to your regional service center.

If there is a delay beyond the usual 5-6 weeks period due to the large volume of returns being received or missing or inaccurate information, you should hear from IRS about your refund within 10 weeks from the time you filed. Taxpayers should wait at least 10 weeks from the time they filed before writing about their refund.

To avoid delays, be sure your Social Security number is entered accurately, all W-2 forms are attached, and the return is signed. Both husband and wife should sign if it is a joint return. Where the wife has income, her Social Security number and W-2 forms must be included.

Q. I'm paying back a loan I took out for my son's college education. Can I deduct these payments on my 1968 return?

A. No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.

Q. I can reduce my taxes if I itemize my deductions and my wife takes the standard deduction. Can we do this?

A. No. Married couples filing separate returns must handle their deductions the same way. If one itemizes deductions, the other must also itemize.

Married couples filing separately must also take the same type of standard deduction. If one takes the 10 per cent standard deduction, both must take it.

JAYWALK TICKET—Leigh G. Barron, 5, contemplates the jaywalking ticket he received in Denver, Colo., which set a Feb. 17 date to appear in court. Leigh was chasing a friend, ran into the path of a car and suffered a broken collarbone and dislocated hip. A policeman made the ambulance wait while he wrote the jaywalking ticket.

Daytime Headlight Use Is Required

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Will requiring motorists to turn on headlights in daytime cut the number of accidents? California highway officials are experimenting with the idea on a 25-mile stretch of two-lane U.S. 99 in Glenn and Colusa counties.

In the last 2½ years, 11 head-on collisions have claimed 27 lives on the stretch, a connecting link for completed portions of Interstate 5. New signs direct motorists to turn on their lights.

Government Cash Eases Johnson Transition To Citizen

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broad range of government benefits including $47,000 in pensions, vast office space, unlimited use of military aircraft and at least a squad of secret servicemen are making life comfortable—and safe—for former President Johnson.

In fact, the transition to private life is so well cushioned that Johnson isn't making use of all the benefits available.

He has abruptly closed the "transition office" in Washington authorized by Congress and is spending the $375,000 provided him under the Transition Act of 1968 at only about one-third the rate needed to use it up before the mid-1969 deadline.

The benefits and perquisites provided by the government seem to assure that the former president need not dip deeply into his private fortune to maintain his planned retirement role as author, college lecturer and overseer-organizer of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library.

Until the eight-story museum-library is completed in the summer or fall of 1970 with a top-floor office for his use, Johnson is occupying free office space on the top floor of the new Federal Office building in Austin, Texas.

About 20 rooms are provided there for staff members, clerical workers and storage. The General Services Administration, housekeeping agency of the government, says the cost is absorbed in the public buildings budget.

The suite occupied by Johnson and several staff members is paneled in teak and carpeted in yellow. It has a handsome fireplace; its windows look out on the University of Texas, where the steel skeleton of the Johnson Library and the connected, three-story structure of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs stands.

The library will have a rooftop landing pad, so that a military helicopter can fly Johnson directly from the family ranch some 60 miles away.

The museum-library-school complex is being built by the university at an estimated cost of $11.8 million. It will be leased to the GSA and maintained at government expense.

The transition office in Washington consisted of two large conference-type rooms in a new government building, manned by a few staff people and four or five typists. It had been expected to operate, mostly as a mail handling and answering center, until the expiration of the transition funds on June 30. Another $375,000 was provided to President Nixon. Nixon's portion reportedly is virtually exhausted, much of it having been used up in preinauguration costs of staff and advisory task forces.

But the Johnson office was closed by Johnson's orders on Feb. 1, after functioning about two weeks. A former official who belatedly disclosed the shutdown said Johnson acted in irritation over newspaper stories about his perquisites as a former president. Another source said the real reason was economy. A third said the Washington office became superfluous when the post-inauguration rush of mail subsided.

For some days after the changeover, mail addressed to him cascaded in at the rate of about 1,400 letters a day. Much of it came addressed to the White House.

The flow has now diminished to fewer than 1,000 letters daily, and mail for Johnson arriving in Washington is being redirected to Austin for reading and reply.

The other offices and benefits are authorized by a series of laws and administrative orders over the years which have enlarged progressively the benefits accruing to former presidents.

While he was president, Johnson arranged that storage space be provided in Austin's new Federal Office building for the tons of papers, documents, films and objects which eventually would go into the Johnson library.

Johnson estimates there are 22 million pages of documents left from the White House—including such data as transcripts of the so-called "Tuesday Lunches" with Cabinet members and meetings of the National Security Council—and enough additional material from his days in Congress to bring the total to 31 million pages.

Most of the papers are stored in rows of filing cabinets on the first floor of the downtown building; more records and museum materials are stored in the basement.

Benefits of a former president begin with a $25,000 a year pension which is supplemented, in Johnson's case, by a $22,000 Congressional pension.

Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower also receive the $25,000; Gen. Eisenhower was obliged, however, to choose between the presidential pension and the pension of a General of the Army; he waived the military pension.

Each former president also gets up to $80,000 a year for staff and office help. This was increased from $65,000 by the 1967 federal pay increase law.

Another $200,000, or about $67,000 each, is provided in the new federal budget to be apportioned among the three ex-presidents for the cost of travel, transportation, and benefits of employees and former employees.

The employees who are not being paid from the $375,000 Transition Act funds can be transferred, when that runs out, to the regular staff allowance if Johnson wishes.

The transition appropriation was a new device to smooth the transfer of power by meeting the extraordinary costs incurred by both the incoming and outgoing chief executives. It covers office help and equipment, duplicating costs and telegraphic outlays. Aides who reported that Johnson is being conservative in dipping into his share added that he is perfectly free to increase the rate of outlays later on.

Budget Bureau aides said the bureau does not monitor the use of the transition money, as long as outlays do not exceed the congressionally imposed limit.

There are some nongovernmental benefits as well. At least a dozen major newspapers and magazines are delivered to Johnson in Austin, gratis. The same publications were delivered to him free at the White House.

A military helicopter will be available at the nearest Air Force base to carry Johnson from the ranch to the library's landing pad. The helicopter could be used now, but so far Johnson has preferred to motor to the office building.

The helicopter and other military planes are available at any time for Johnson's use, upon Secret Service request, to insure the safety of the former president while traveling. Johnson also may use private planes loaned by friends in industry, as he did occasionally while president.

He is unlikely ever to use commercial airliners. One of the concerns of the Secret Service—and of the Nixon administration—is that a former president might be on a plane hijacked to Cuba. The use of commercial flights also would expose him to greater danger of assassination attempts.

Johnson has invoked a provision of an interagency agreement signed on July 15, 1968. It establishes rules under which Secret Service protection is to be given candidates for the presidency; one section also provides that the armed forces make available any needed transportation, communication, medical and other services upon Secret Service request, for the protection of any person guarded by the service.

President Nixon is expected to be generous about the use of military equipment. Between the time of his election and inauguration, Johnson relinquished to Nixon the use of the specially fitted and equipped jet liner, Air Force One. Johnson used a standby plane, older but similarly equipped.

At least a dozen Secret Service agents are assigned to guard the former president and Mrs. Johnson, but the number will vary with Johnson's movements. Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., said it seems reasonable that as many as 26 men may be available for this detail.

The actual number at any time is withheld for security reasons, but Steed, chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee responsible for examining the Secret Service budget, said that two dozen or more agents would be "par for the course." Three shifts are necessary, and the active Johnson likely to be exposed to more risk than the other two former presidents. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, ailing in Walter Reed Army hospital, Washington, requires little protection. Truman dislikes the Secret Service escort, Steed said, and he "chases them away."

For Johnson's continued protection, a good portion of the special installations at his ranch are being left in place, including a 6,300-foot asphalt runway, a converted hangar, some small buildings and trailers. Most of the costly communications equipment is gone, but enough remains to assure that President Nixon can consult quickly and privately with his predecessor if he wishes.

Of the score of rooms assigned to Johnson in the Federal Office Building, seven or eight are setup as offices for Johnson and his staff; the others are used for clerical and storage purposes.

Some contain sensitive papers accumulated by Johnson during his presidency; they must be examined for declassification before they can be used for research and writing.

Walt Whitman Rostow, Johnson's top assistant on foreign affairs while he was in the White House and now University of Texas professor, occupies one office to work on the documents and assist Johnson with his memoirs.

Other offices are occupied by Tom Johnson, former press aide and now Johnson's executive assistant; Harry Middleton and Robert Hardesty, researchers and writers; and some other former White House staff people including Ms. Dorothy Territo.

Mrs. Willie Day Taylor, and Mrs. Mildred Stegall.

Dr. Chester Newland, who will have charge of the library, and Newland's small staff also have offices in the downtown structure, and a mail room operates on the second floor with perhaps a half-dozen people.

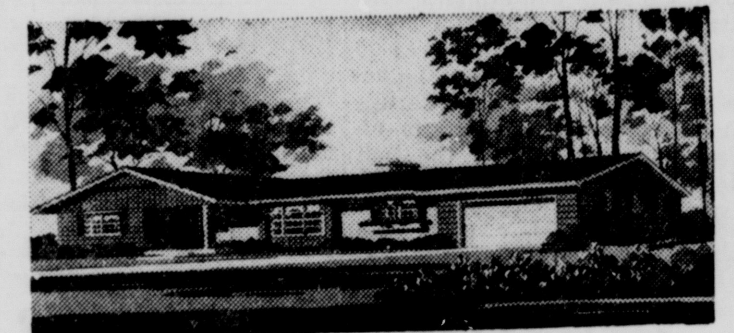

The Secret Service keeps close watch on this building as well as the ranch; it is known that two men who made threats on the president's life have been removed from the building. Neither was armed.

Salvage Fireplaces

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A salvage program in old buildings being demolished to make way for a new police headquarters resulted in saving five 18th century fireplaces, a stairway and a fluted baseboard for use in restoring another old building, city officials said.
